DEAL 'DEATH BLOWS' IN TRAP

Recommends $25,000 City Pay Boost

COUNCIL GROUP SEEKS ACTION TUESDAY NIGHT

Rookie Policemen and Firemen Slated For Raise From $120 to $140.

ALL DEPARTMENTS RAISED

Separate Ordinance Would Up Pay of Incoming Mayor, City Solicitor, Auditor.

Wage and salary increases for city employes totaling more than $25,000 annually will be recommended to council tomorrow night in a salary committee report to be submitted by Fred Miller sr committee chairman and Fifth ward member. The increases would be effective as of Feb 1

Third-class or rookie policemen and firemen will receive the largest increase, the new scale calling for $140 a month or $20 above the present salary of $120. Nearly all other increases are for $10 to $15 more on monthly ratings with Traffic Commissioner Friend C Boals getting the greatest individual boost from $175 to $200 to place him on a pay par with police captains.

In the waterworks department three class A laborers will benefit by $15 a month with service repairmen gaining $10 boosts, the committee holding that the laborers do practically the same work as the repairmen. In some instances monthly increases are limited to $5 in the ordinance proposal.

In a companion ordinance which will not affect pay of incumbents but become operative with new terms the committee boosts the salary of mayor from $1,000 to $4,500, that of auditor from $2,700 to $3,000 and city solicitor from $2,400 to $2,500, the latter office participating in income from other political subdivisions The salary of the city clerk (Robert Black) is regulated by state code and can be changed only after reappointment.

Serving with Chairman Miller, a Democrat, are Councilmen Russell Porch and Paul Bush, Republicans, yet reliable reports indicate that since the committee reached final decisions last Wednesday Mayor

KNOX BACK HOME, TOO

Navy Secretary Optimistic on Progress of Nation's War Efforts in Pacific.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U P)—President Roosevelt today summoned Secretary of State Cordell Hull and a group of Democratic and Republican congressional leaders to the White House for separate conferences at which he planned a report on his just-completed aerial trip to Casablanca where he met with Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt back at the White House after a three weeks absence today was expected to report to the nation soon on his historic conferences with Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Getulio Vargas of Brazil

His report may be through a press conference or a radio fireside chat—or possibly both. If he plans a radio address, it probably will be postponed until he catches up on the accumulation of foreign and domestic matters which piled up during his trip to Africa.

Mr Roosevelt returned to the White House early last night, making the last leg of his trip from Miami by special train.

The last public stop made by the president was at Trinidad, one of the West Indies islands which became an American base in the destroyer-for bases deal with Geat Britain before the United States entered the war.

Trinidad was the third official stop on the trip home from Casablanca Earlier in the week, Mr. Roosevelt conferred with Vargas aboard an American destroye anchored off Natal, Brazil Before leaving Africa he inspected American Negro trops at Monrovia, Liberia.

Tomorrow is the day for the president's regular press conference There was no indication whether he would have time for that, or would postpone his first meeting with the Washington

Reds Wipe Out Nazi Remnants At Stalingrad

Americans In Africa Drive Forward At Axis After Checking Thrust At Pass; British Eighth Army Pushes To West Again.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK—(INS)—"The last German soldiers are now being wiped out at Stalingrad," the British radio today quoted a Moscow dispatch as saying, according to CBS.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP—United States troops were stabbing at German positions in three central Tunisian sectors today in aerially screened operations that may lead to the long-awaited general offensive and the final battle for North Africa.

(By Associated Press)

The Russians were delivering their last death blows today to the half-frozen, starving, desperate remnant of the mighty army Hitler sacrificed at Stalingrad.

Relentless attacks added another 900 or more dead and others captured to the toll which the Russians placed officially at 240,000 killed and 46,000 taken prisoner in the bloodiest trap of the war.

And in their own broadcasts—from the Berlin radio which last fall triumphantly proclaimed Stalingrad captured—the Germans sounded a requiem praise to "the heroes of Stalingrad" . . . "The army of the dead."

American troops, strongly supported from the air, smashed forward against heavy Axis opposition in three sectors of the Tunisian front, mainly toward Maknassy, only 33 miles from the Gulf of Gabes, an Allied spokesman announced.

Some 30 miles north of this battlefield, a German thrust which carried six miles through Faid pass toward Sidi Bouzid against the French was checked and under counterattack by American forces, with fighting continuing last night.

To the north, in the Robaa area of Pont Du Fahs, the British reported repelling another Nazi attack and destroying six German tanks, two of them 52-tonners equipped with 88-millimeter guns and seven-inch armor.

The British Eighth army meanwhile announced the occupation of Zuara, 65 miles west of Tripoli, and pushed steadily westward in contact with Rommel's rear guard.

In Russia and Africa the cost of defeats was heavy upon German, Rumanian and Italian commanders.

The Russians announced the capture at Stalingrad of Field Marshal Friedrich Paulus, commander in chief of the Sixth German army, who was raised in rank from colonel general only yesterday by Hitler himself

Along with this first captured German field marshal of the war, the Russians announced taking prisoner 13 other German generals and two Rumanian generals.

Rome broadcasts reported, meanwhile that Marshal Ugo Cavallero, Musolini's undersecretary of war and chief of the Italian general staff, had resigned "at his own request" and would be succeeded by Gen. Vittorio Ambrosio.

The resignation came as Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces pushed past the Tripolitanian border into Tunisia, and the

GOP 'HARMONY' MEETING SET

Party Leaders, Officials To Convene on Candidate Slate For Fall Election.

Richland county Republican leaders and G. O. P city officials are scheduled to meet in a "harmony" session Wednesday night that is expected to go a long way toward deciding who will be the party's candidate for mayor this year.

Ralph Hardy, county G. O. P. executive chairman, called the meeting for the Happy Harry dining room and pointed out that the fact that it will be a "harmony" session doesn't mean there's disunion in the party ranks. The committee has a similar session every year or two at which candidates and matters of party interest are discussed, he said.

"We'd like to know who's going to run for re-election so we can start filling any vacancies on the Sutter, a driver for the Pringle Trucking company, was arrested at Sixth street and Franklin avenue and escorted to a nearby police call box, Colby related. While he was calling headquarters Sutter ran and ignored Colby's commands to "halt," the patrolman said. Colby said he fired one shot into the air but when Sutter continued to flee he aimed at his body, the second bullet striking the fugitive in the knee.

MENACE: New Nazi Admiral Maps Desperate U-Boat Attack

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(INS Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Packs of U-boats roaming the seas in unprecedented numbers, officered and manned by crews under edict to "Kill! Kill! Kill!," will redden the calendar of brutal ocean warfare from today on as Hitler's last desperate grasp for the Allied jugular vein is given muscle by the strong arm of Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, new Nazi naval chief

Hitler's move in appointing this sharp-faced and cold-eyed "butcher" of German submarine annals in command of the German fleet presages but one thing:

A desperate and all-out Hitler gamble to cut Allied shipping so drastically in the next weeks through surface and underseas attacks that the striking power of Anglo-American armies will be sufficiently crippled by lack of men and supplies to thwart the launching of any major land offensives against the Axis.

At the same time, this would enable Hitler to stage one more final savage spring and summer campaign against the Allies and the Red army to postpone a little while his inevitable defeat

Doenitz is the right choice for the eleventh-hour showdown, and the submarine is the logical weapon. In the new fleet commander, Hitler has found the man of cold blood willing to gamble with death and win or lose regardless of consequences.

Practically raised on ships and a pioneer among U-boat commanders Doenitz was an exponent of unrestricted sea warfare as far back as bushy-faced Admiral Von Tirpitz's days in 1917, and today

FDR Withdraws Flynn Nomination For Ambassador

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt withdrew today the nomination of Edward J. Flynn to be United States minister to Australia.

The action came in the face of mounting senate opposition threatening confirmation of the former national Democratic chairman, and marked the administration's first major rebuff in the new congress.

The withdrawal message was at the bottom of a long list of nominations transmitted to the senate. It merely said:

"Withdrawal, Edward J. Flynn, New York, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States of America to Australia, at the request of Mr. Flynn."

Senator Bridges (R-N. H.) who led the Republican attack on the nominee, said Flynn's announcement was "a victory for integrity in government and decency in American diplomacy."

"The reason for the withdrawal is obvious," Bridges said in a statement. "The senate would Flynn's nomination by a decisive majority."

FAVORS CLOSING

Fisher Wants 'Breather' For State Liquor Stores.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Don A Fisher, acting state liquor director, indicated today it might be a "good idea" to close retail stores temporarily until stocks could be built up.

He said the state distributed more domestic whisky to liquor stores last month than during January, 1942, but the "drought continued to grow worse."

"No domestic whisky" signs appeared in some stores throughout the state, and larger cities reported supplies of low-price liquors virtually exhausted over the week-end.

Fisher said deliveries were made to all state stores last week.

The acting director said he doubted a rationing system proposed by Jacob B. Taylor, liquor director now on leave as a major in the army, would be placed in effect, at least for some time.

Seven Pounds Of Triplets, All Girls, Born At Hospital

Three tiny babies whose aggregate weight is less than seven pounds were born Sunday afternoon to Mr and Mrs. George Waldie, Edison, at Mansfield General hospital.

The babies, all girls were delivered prematurely exactly a half minute apart by Caesarian operation, weighing two pounds 10 ounces, two pounds four and a half ounces and two pounds and three quarters of an ounce. They have been placed in an incubator and are being fed with a medicine dropper.

They are the second set of triplets born at General hospital in the past 25 months. On Jan. 15 the two daughters and son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll J. Solomon, 431 Edgewood road, celebrated their second birthday. Before Sunday's arrivals, the Solomon babies were the only triplets in this vicinity.

Mrs. Waldie said she was "so surprised about the whole thing" that she couldn't begin thinking about names for them today. Nurses reported that the father is having a hard time believing it."

The 28 year old mother also has a son, Billy, who will be two years old in April and a daughter, Natalie Anne, four Waldie is employed as an engineer at the Hydraulic Press Manufacturing company in Mt. Gilead.

Brought to the hospital in an ambulance, Mrs. Waldie became mother of the triplets at 2:18 p. m. Sunday. The babies are reported to be in "fair" condition and are to remain at the hospital until they weigh about five pounds.

Weatherman Says Furry Earth Dweller Will See Clouds.

Overcast skies today likely will prevail through tomorrow—Groundhog day—to prevent the furry earth dweller from seeing his shadow if he emerges from his hole at noon to get a peek at the weather for the next six weeks.

Colder temperatures will be accompanied by snow but not so much wind, according to Ohio's official weather observer, in a forecast for tonight and Tuesday. If a groundhog sees his shadow at high noon on Feb. 2 he returns to his dugout to sleep through a six-weeks' period of cold weather, a familiar adage says.

Mild temperatures prevailed in the Mansfield area over the weekend with flashes of sunshine Sunday followed by driving rains in the evening and a temperature drop to 20 above zero by this morning.

Married Men To Get Calls In Big March Draft Quota

Tentative calls for March inductees received by Richland county's three selective service boards are the largest in recent months and will make necessary calling up of married men without dependents in the case of Board three, it was announced by board officials today.

Because they have had lower calls in the past few months Boards one and two have enough single men, mostly of the 18-year-old group, to fill their March quota, Board three having filled heavy calls will have exhausted registrants of the 18-year-old group before the March quota is filled Mrs Emma Edwards clerk of the country board, said

Notices of first physical examination for service will be mailed out to prospective March inductees this week, Mrs. Edwards indicated. In the number who will receive orders to report for examination are many married men, she explained. "This is unavoidable in our case," she went on, "since most of our younger men are gone already or are due to leave with February's contingents."

VICTORY?: Japs Claim To Have Sunk Two U. S. Battleships

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The Tokyo radio quoted Admiral Shigetaro Shimada, navy minister, as telling the diet today that Japanese planes sank two battleships and three destroyers off the most southerly point of the Solomons last Friday and Saturday

In addition he said, one battleship and one cruiser were damaged seriously.

The broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, quoted Admiral Shimada as saying:

"On Jan 29 at twilight a great enemy fleet consisting of large numbers of cruisers, battleships and destroyers was sighted west of Rennell island by our planes which carried out a surprise attack, sinking by direct hits one battleship and two cruisers while some more warships were damaged."

On the following day, he asserted, one more battleship and one more cruiser were sunk

Three enemy fighter planes were shot down, he added.

The only Japanese losses, he said, were 10 planes.

REDS DELIVER DEATH BLOW TO TRAPPED NAZIS

Start to Wipe Out Remnants of German Army Still Before Stalingrad.

last shred of Italy's African empire was gone.

The German high command acknowledged that its sixth army, under Field Marshal Paulus, had been "overwhelmed after more than two months of heroic defense against superior forces." It said other Germans still held on in the northern part of Stalingrad, but held out little hope for them.

On the Tunisian front, the docks at Bizerte and the port of Gabes were battered anew yesterday in daylight attacks from the west, and a communique said 19 Axis planes were destroyed with a loss of five Allied aircraft.

An Italian submarine was sunk in the western Mediterranean by the Canadian corvette Port Arthur.

The capture of Zuara put the British within 35 miles of the Tunisian border, and the Morocco adio reported the Eighth army had crossed the frontier on the coastal road beyond the town.

An earlier British announcement of patrol penetration into Tunisia apparently referred to operations 30 to 40 miles inland.

Allied airmen striking from the east continud to batter Axis airdromes in Sicily and shipping off the Tunisian coast.

The French in North Africa announced execution of 11 Axis parachutist spies, caught wearing civilian clothes behind Allied lines, and execution of two Arabs convicted of aiding them.

The Russians, announcing the rope of the catastrophe to German arms at Stalingrad, said 30,000 of the enemy had been trapped instead of 220,000 as they reported earlier.

Of these, according to the Russian count, barely 43,000 remained, and their fate seemed sealed.

New gains were announced along virtually the whole southern Russian front, where the Germans have been thrust back almost to their line of a year ago everywhere but in the Rostov sector and in the extreme northwestern Caucasus.

The German radio kept up its broadcasts reporting the Stalingrad debacle to the German people, extolling the heroism of the Nazi suicide stand and declaring that it frustrated a critical Russian break-through.

The Allies braced to meet the growing menace of German undersea war, the only phase of the war in which the Axis still holds the offensive.

In warning of the all-out bid to break Allied ship supply lines, Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, Wolf pack U-boat attack originator, was placed in full command of the German navy.

"I will put the entire, concentrated strength of the navy into the submarine war, which will be carried with still greater vigor and determination than hitherto," Doenitz said yesterday in his first proclamation as commander in chief. "The entire German navy will hencefoth be put into the service of inexorable U-boat warfare. The German navy will fight to the finish."

mmends Mosquito ews For Raids

LONDON—(UP)—Air Marshal Arthur Harris, commanding Royal Air Force bomber command, sent special commendation today to the mosquito crews who raided Berlin Saturday.

Harris called the flight magnificent and said the planes, attacking in broad daylight while Nazi leaders were trying to speak on the 10th anniversary of Hitler's usurpation of power, can not have failed to cause consternation among Germany and encouragement to the oppressed peoples of Europe.

"Heavy bombers followed up the daylight raid with a major bombing attack on Germany's key port of Hamburg Saturday night.

The air ministry said that fourteen Mosquito planes dropped four-ton and one-ton demolition bombs and incendiaries, in 15 minutes.

ssolini Exhorts rist Militiamen

LONDON — (AP) — Premier Mussolini told an audience of Fascist militiamen today that victory in this war would go to the nation which "is able to hold out a minute hour longer than the enemy and that "it is the last quarter that brings victory."

Mussolini's voice spoke "somewhere in Italy" in observance of the 20th anniversary of the Fascist militia, according to a broadcast from the Rome radio, recorded by the Associated Press.

Referring to the loss of Libya, Mussolini said it had taken the chief enemy (Britain) 32 months to register its first success and declared that Italy would return to North Africa.

"We shall return there where we have left and await us and where we will find indestructible marks of our ancient and powerful civilization," he asserted.

In reference to the Casablanca meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, which he called "a mad, criminal propagandist mystification," Mussolini said:

"And our comrades of the Reich and the tripartite alliance know what to do this with the declaration that we shall never give up the struggle as we are able to grasp a weapon or combat."

Shelby Man Released, Then Arrested on New Charge.

Immediately after Judge C H. Huston granted his release on a habeas corpus writ in common pleas court this morning, George Risic, 52, Shelby, was re-arrested on a charge of encouraging delinquency of a child i connection with the same offense for which he was first arrested.

Sheriff Frank Robinson, who had brought Risic to the hearing on his writ for release, returned him to the county jail on the new charge. He had been in jail since Jan. 12, having been held in default of $5,000 bond set Jan. 11 by Mayor W. R. Morris at Shelby.

The charge on which he was first booked and bound over from Shelby alleged an attempted assault on a female child under 14 years of age. The second count which is pending, although for the same offense, orignated in juvenile court and charges him with encouraging delinquency of the same nine-year-old girl.

said registration of new 18-year-olds had been light and that they believed there were many who had, for some reason or another, failed to register upon reaching their 18th birthday.

The law provides that the boys must register on the next day, not a legal holiday or Sunday, following their 18th birthday.

"It is not likely that these new 18-year-old registrants will be called for service for about two months since it takes some time to process them," Todd Patton clerk of Board one explained. "It has been the policy to wait until the end of the month before we start sending questionnaires to boys registered within the month. Other papers follow in order."

Carrying of classification, as well as refistration cards, became mandatory today for all registrants who were less than 45 years old when they were registered.

Registrants were warned again to report all changes in address, place of work or status to their draft board immediately.

National selective service headquarters said that draft boards had been authorized to be "liberal" with delinquents who failed to carry both classification and registration cards, as well as those who failed to report changes, in the event they straightened out their records within two weeks. Penalties might run as high as five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

is still the fanatic believer in the effective use of the submarine as the ace weapon against German enemies.

He strikes a responsive chord in Hitler's heart with his utter ruthlessness in obeying orders and carrying out duties regardless the cost. Doenitz even in past years echoed Hitler's callous remarks that killing of the enemy en masse and everywhere is the surest way of winning a war.

The submarine, used in "wolf packs" to raid enemy shipping lanes in unrestricted form, is the weapon Doenitz kept in the foreground of Hitler's mind as the deadliest creeping paralysis procedure available against German foes. Consequently Doenitz, more than the shelved Grand Marshal Raeder, always has been the apple of Hitler's eye.

The keynote of Doenitz's Prussian attitude toward life was expressed by himself some years ago at a naval banquet on the Tirpitz Ufer in Berlin, headquarters of the German admiralty. In that inner circle he said: "Humanity is a sign of weakness. We shall wage war against humanity, not with it." That remark, at the time, drew a Hitler commendation.

closed last night he was asking the president to withdraw his nomination for the post.

While asserting he had been assured by friends in the senate that he would be confirmed, the gray-haired Bronx political leader said he was "unwilling to permit my candidacy to be made the excuse for a partisan political debate."

"To me," he said, "the prosecution of the war is above all other considerations."

Speculation on other possibilities for the post immediately centered on Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan.

Polls of the senate indicated that Flynn's nomination would have been rejected by several votes.

Flynn announced his withdrawal shortly after President Roosevelt returned to the capital from North Africa, although he said he had not conferred with the president before acting. The senate had been scheduled to debate the issue today, and such a debate, Flynn said, would "imply unfortunate disunity."

"I do not question the motives of those who are opposing my confirmation," he said, "but I am mindful of grievances, real or fancied, against the president."

Flynn was described by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at a New York meeting last night as the victim of an anti-administration campaign.

Asserting that Flynn "is a good man," the president's wife said:

"I don't like the fact that we have political hosses in various communities. But a great deal was made of the paving block thing. Mr. Flynn was attacked because he is part of the administration and they don't like the administration."

U. S. Subs Deal New Blows To Jap Shipping

WASHINGTON—(AP)—American submarines operating in the Pacific have struck new and spectacular blows at Japanese shipping, the navy announced over the week-end.

In a communique Saturday night, the navy said United States undersea craft sank six Japanese ships, including a destroyer, and damaged a seventh. One large tanker and four medium-sized cargo ships were listed as Japanese losses. Another medium-sized enemy cargo vessel was damaged.

The latest navy report on undersea warfare raised to 177 the number of Japanese vessels successfully attacked. Of these, navy communiques have listed 123 as sunk, 22 probably sunk and 32 damaged.

Two Escape From Car After It Plunges Into Lake.

TOLEDO—(INS)—Two men who escaped death by kicking open a back door of their car when it broke through the ice and plunged into 12 feet of water in Lake Erie were back in Toledo today without any apparent injuries.

Stanley Barker, 31, and Edward Miller, 30, were driving over the ice from Monroe, Mich., to Bolles Harbor. The accident occurred about two miles from shore, and the auto was hauled from the water by ice fishermen. The men were taken to Monroe where firemen gave them dry clothing.

$25,000 CITY WAGE HIKE TO GO TO COUNCIL

Rookie Policemen and Firemen Slated For Raise From $120 to $140.

W. J. Locke and his advisers have sought deviously to learn the new schedules, the mayor voicing a warning that Miller, although outmanned two to one on the committee, would "raise the Democrats and rim the Republicans on the city payroll."

Some debate arose in committee over the salary of Lloyd L. Kochenderfer, parking meter inspector, Mayor Locke having expressed a desire to have his rating fixed as that of a first class patrolman at $175 a month but the new ordnance grants a boost of $10 to $145.

Chairman Miller indicated he sees no needs of surety bonds for policemen or firemen and many other city posts and described this phase of the salary ordinances of the past "as possibly a plum for anyone having a 'monopoly' on furnishing the bonds" which total about $160,000, renewable annually.

The new pay plan calls for $3,220 instead of $3,060 for the service-safety director and a $5 boost for a clerk-stenographer to $140. A similar raise is recommended for the deputy auditor and the city hall telephonist.

The city engineer will receive $5 monthly raise, assistants will benefit by 50 cents a day more pay, a junior engineer by 75 cents, draftsmen, rodmen and chainmen by 50 cents.

In the street department, truck drivers will step from $140 to $150 with one assigned as a mechanic receiving $15 monthly for tool rental. One class A laborer will step from $135 to $145 as a painter and other class A labor from $125 to $140.

Pay of the waterworks superintendent goes from $2,160 to $2,220, secretary up $5 monthly to $1,290 a year, stenographer clerk $5 more per month; two bookkeepers $10 a month additional; assistant pumping engineers from 80 cents to 85 cents an hour, pumpmen up five cents to 70 cents an hour; service repairmen from $155 a month to $165; three class A laborers from $125 to $140 and one to receive $10 monthly for expenses; meter inspector up from $1,860 to $1,980 annually and electrician from $600 annually to $660.

Pay for some jobs in the water, sewer and garbage departments is compiled from appropriations from various funds established for the different departments and instances of seemingly low pay reflect a single item and not a totaled amount. Such positions as supervisor, electrician, bookkeeper and others are covered by accumulative pay.

The garbage department superintendent is raised from $840 a year to $960, the secretary's partial pay remains at $585, the bookkeeper's at $690, clerk-stenographer at $420 while 14 truck drivers go from $150 to $160 and the two salvage department workers stay at the $150 voted in December.

In the sewer department the superintendent is raised to $2,940 from $2,820. The chief operator at the sanitary plant will get $5 more a month, assistants $10 more and the secretary $585 annually, with the record clerk going from $1,740 to $1,860, electrician to get $1,440, one bookkeeper from $1,680 to $1,740 and a helper to get $840. Two sewer repairmen will get $10 a month increase, to $150, one to receive $10 additional as truck driver.

Pay of the mason is raised from 80 to 90 cents an hour, improvement inspectors from $5.75 to $6.25 per day, an electrical inspector will receive $25 a month, linemen are raised 15 cents an hour to 70 cents, electricians from 70 to 80 cents, city hall janitors will get $5 more a month. Four class A laborers will receive 75 cents an hour, others 70 cents and class B workers 65 cents—a five-cent boost for all classes. The investigator for indigent hospital cases will receive $500 plus $120 expenses annually.

The municipal court clerk will step from $2,160 to $2,220, two deputy clerks from $1,560 to $1,680, the bailiff from $1,980 to $2,040 and one assistant clerk from $1,200 to $1,260.

In the police department the chief's pay goes up $15 to $225, captains from $185 to $200, lieutenants from $170 to $185, detectives from $185 to $200 and traffic commissioner and junior patrol officer goes from $175 to $200 with $10 monthly expense pay.

The identification officer will be upped $15 to $200 and an assistant from $165 to $175. First-class patrolmen will step from $160 to $175, second-lass patrolmen in service one year and less than two move from $135 to $150 while first-year men advance from $120 to $140. Two plain-clothes first class patrolmen will get $25 monthly expense.

In the fire department similar raises are allowed, the chief to get $225, eight captains will step to $200 and 24 firemen will range from $140 to $175 with two going to $200 for their boiler inspector license ratings.

About one year ago council voted increases totaling around $18,000 but within the last three months nearly all departments have asked for raises to meet war-created living cost increases.

ticket," Hardy said.

Mayor W. J. Locke, Councilman George C Kyle and C. M. Crafton former service-safety director, have been mentioned as possible G. O. P. mayoralty candidates, but none of them has announced his intentions.

Hardy said today he was not in a position to say whether the mayor would seek a third term next fall, but the committee hopes to get the answer Wednesday night.

Invited with other city officials, Kyle also will have a chance to make his plans known to the committee. Other councilmen have been asked to attend.

Crafton, who resigned his city job last year after disagreeing with Mayor Locke on administration policies, said today he had not made up his mind about running.

"It's pretty early yet, and I probably won't have any statement to make for another six or eight weeks," he said. He added that he had not been invited to the Wednesday night meeting.

press corps in almost a month until later in the week. It will be the first time that reporters will have had the opportunity of questioning the president since his "unconditional surrender" conference with Churchill. Questions were prohibited at his meeting with war correspondents in Casablanca.

The chief executive probably will go to work right away on plans developed for "unconditional surrender" of the Axis as soon as possible.

Official quarters here believed that the president and Churchill and their military advisors decided when and where to start a victory offensive against the Axis.

Their decision, of course, will be unknown to the public until the big push actually begins. But, as in the case of the North African invasion, a comparatively lengthy period of preparation will be required.

The president took a week to make the trip home from Casablanca. Sources close to the president said he was in tip-top shape at the end of his trip of over 10,000 miles.

Prospects 'Good' For Raid On Tokyo

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—(AP)—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox has returned from an inspection of Pacific outposts with the predictions that "there are darn good prospects of an air attack on Tokyo" and that "within the next 30 days all organized resistance on Guadalcanal will disappear."

The secretary, who stopped here briefly yesterday en route back to Washington on his 20,000-mile inspection trip, twice within the past two weeks was under Japanese air attack. The first was a short one at Espiritu Santo in the New Hebrides and the second, much heavier of seven-hour duration, was on Guadalcanal. No casualties were reported in either attack.

With Secretary Knox during the attacks were Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, and Admiral William F Halsey, commander of the South Pacific force.

"I think there are darn good prospects of an air attack on Tokyo," the secretary said at Pearl Harbor just before flying here. "But when or how it will hit I will not say."

"Our submarines are doing a magnificent job and operations against the Japanese lines of communications are going at a good rate. I think destruction of shipping is a matter of great concern to the Japanese."

The submarine situation in the Atlantic, however, he viewed as "a tough problem to us" and said "lots of losses are ahead there for us."

The entire and absolute freedom of the press is essential to the preservation of government on the basis of a free constitution.—Daniel Webster.

Quote: "A housewife in Maine has seen four movies a week for 30 years"—but did she ever win a bank night award?

Now's Time To Avoid the Rush

WITH February here, March will be coming along surprisingly soon. What about that income tax return? Internal revenue officials are usually glad to help the citizen with his struggle to be fair, both to his government and to himself—but they wish he would come quickly with his problems before lines begin to form and everybody has to wait hours and stay up half the night.

No matter what happens in congress about future tax payments, the quarterly installment due March 15 is going to be due on that date. So it's time now to sharpen the pencil, get out a sheet of scratch paper, and set it all down. Then before you commit yourself to the last dollar and cent, ask the tax people whether you are right. If you are, file the form and make the payment.

If you are not right, the tax people will help you. Sometimes they know about deductions you are permitted to make but which you might not think of. This is especially true for people who have never before had to pay an income tax. Men of large affairs usually leave their complicated tax-figuring to their lawyer or auditor, but a few minutes' talk with a helpful tax man usually serves to straighten out the matter for tax payers with simpler problems.

History Repeating for Germany

AS THE KNELL sounds for Nazi Germany, the saddest thing to the German people must be the discovery that present-day Germany has no friends. The Germans lost their foreign friends when they followed the bloody banner of Hitler and sanctioned his slaughter and accepted his victories.

It has been a dance of death that he led them. It has also been a dance of hate, such as perhaps has never been known before in the civilized world. Hitler has reveled in hatred as well as blood, and the hate that he has taught the German people against other nations naturally recoils on them.

Was there ever in human history so great a perversion of the decencies and amenities for which mankind has struggled, as has been wrought by the crazed Hitler? He has seemed, in this horrible war, to be like Attila, the "scourge of God," who swept through Europe with a deluge of blood in the fifth century, and whose followers thought he was destined to rule the world. But God swept him off into "the dust-bin of history" as he is now sweeping Hitler.

Thought reverts to the German people. What will they do now, as schemes of conquest fail again, and they are driven back, as so often in their long history of warfare and failure, to re-orient themselves? Will they accept at last a program of permanent peace, as the only alternative to national destruction? If so, there is still hope for them.

Slow Home-Coming for Scrap Metal

A LITTLE at a time, some of the scrap which went overseas, east and west both, in the form of planes, tanks and munitions, is coming back to continental United States. So far the amounts are so small that they do not make a real dent in the steel situation, but there is hope of more. Philip W. Frieder, newly elected vice president of the American Scrap Iron and Steel Institute, says:

> "As we can control the African battlefields and those to come, there's the possibility that salvage of Axis tanks, motorized equipment, airplanes and blasted ships may increase to the point of becoming a factor in the American scrap situation."

There are difficulties in acquiring the scrap. Getting control of the battlefields is the first of these, then there is the transportation of salvage metals to ports, and handling them there for the quick turn-around and supply ships. There have to be facilities on this side for the other quick turn-around back to the oversea ports.

Another serious shortage of scrap seems to be developing and may come to a head in a few months. Every American will go through attic, cellar, barn and woodshed once more. But no American would be sorry to see some of that scrap metal once sold to Japan coming back to be used against her.

Challenges Alger Philosophy

THE PHILOSOPHY of Horatio Alger, as reflected in his "rags to riches" stories which served to inspire ambitious boys around a half century ago, is being challenged.

It is Dr. John R. Scotford, now of New York but once a Congregational minister in Cleveland, who questions the desirability of placing as much emphasis on acquiring money as was done by Horatio Alger.

"The Alger philosophy of rising from a newsboy to a bank president needs to be drastically overhauled," says Dr. Scotford, "Ohio certainly has had too many bank presidents."

The extent to which money, in excess of sufficient to meet reasonable needs, can contribute to happiness, will probably continue as a debatable question—but a preacher seems to be treading on dangerous ground in making a statement that "too many" persons are engaged in some other profession.

No Races for Race Horses

WHAT is a racing stable to do with its horses when the tracks have closed, perhaps for the duration? That is the hard problem facing the Florida owners of thoroughbreds, now that transportation is sounding the knell of the famous Florida races.

It costs five dollars a day to support a thoroughbred in the style to which he is accustomed. And it would seem odd to turn a fine racing horse over to commercial use.

Racing is only one sport whose immediate future is highly uncertain. Even that solid American institution, baseball, is tottering.

Discovery—Bread is easier to slice after it is several days old.

THREE MEN ON A RAFT

Russia Wants All Possible Help, Dark Picture May Be Good Logic

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—All of our best pessimists have been pointing out that the Russian victories this winter are no more spectacular than last, but that last winter's Soviet gains and "slaughters" of the Nazis did not stop the new German offensive last summer, which included the capture of Sevastopol.

It is also true, as some of the pessimists point out, that even the most optimistic Russian forecasters do not promise that the Russians will regain as much territory this winter as they lost in the German offensive last summer. For instance, there is no thought in high military circles of the United Nations that the Russians will recapture Sevastopol this winter.

On the contrary, the grim fact is that the Russian high command, despite the present victories, actually envisages a new huge German offensive the coming summer. Not only that, but the Russian generals are considerably worried about its possibilities.

This may be a mere bit of strategy on their part, not in their warfare against Germany, but in their negotiations with Britain and the United States. Naturally enough the Russians want to get every plane, every tank, every truck, every gun and every round of ammunition, not to mention every ounce of food from us that they can. To present a picture to us, therefore, that they are going very well now, but next summer they may be in sore straits again, would be perfectly sound logic.

SOME years back, in the "Before Roosevelt" political period, the writer was making a scouting trip over the country for a New York newspaper. He asked an old friend, the political leader of Minnesota, what would happen there in the imminent presidential election.

"Do you want me to tell you the truth, or what I would like you to print," the old man asked.

"Both," I replied.

"Well, the truth is that we are going to carry Minnesota by at least 50,000, maybe a little more," he said, "but I don't want you to print that. I want you to print a story in New York that Minnesota is so close that it's painful—that a few votes swung one way or the other will decide it."

"If you print that," he said, "the national committee will be frightened, and will give me the money I have been clamoring for. Then we will not only carry the state, but we will elect a good many sheriffs."

Precisely the same logic may explain what the Russians are telling our people.

On the other hand, a glance at the war map will show that the Russians have to gain a lot more ground to be back where they were when last summer's Nazi offensive began. Look at the battle line on the map, and then look at Sevastopol!

BUT—it may be well to remember another thing. Last winter we heard a lot about big forces of Germans being encircled. Then we heard no more about these "pockets," or, as some of the experts call them, "hedgehogs."

This year we have been told officially by the Russians, that the huge Nazi force before Stalingrad has been liquidated.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Feb. 1, 1923.

Total cost of proposed new municipal building, including site, was estimated at $233,500 with credit of $87,000 as sale price of old city hall.

Twin daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Clay E. Crowl, 145 West Fourth street.

Dr. C. N. Houseton moved from farm near Lexington to 49 East Fourth street.

Vivian G. Anderson resigned position at Aultman-Taylor company to go to Bay City, Mich.

It was on this date in 1878 that John Ericsson, engineer and inventor, was given a patent for the screw propeller for steamships. In later years he was responsible for the design and construction of the Monitor, famous Civil war vessel.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Mom is tryin' to take advantage of my patriotism—suggests that I be good for the duration."

Dave Boone Says:

REPRESENTATIVE John Flannagan is sure entitled to a hand for giving the folks a good laugh in exposing that letter from a WPB official, a Harvard man, to a Virginia farmer who had inquired about getting some more horseshoes. The letter laid down some rules about horseshoes that will keep the farmers of this country laughing for months.

The government spokesman suggested that wear and tear on horseshoes be prevented by shifting shoes. It eliminated "unessential styles" in horseshoes and it suggested that if the shoes were taken off horses outside of working hours it would be a big help.

As Representative Flannagan said, the WPB man evidently thinks horseshoes now come with zippers attached. But that's bureaucracy all over. They put a Harvard man in charge of things like horseshoes and probably name a man who knows something about horses to a job where he can make decisions in college affairs.

Nobody who ever saw a blacksmith shop would suggest taking off a horse's shoes in a dull moment and putting 'em on again the minute things picked up. Speaking of styles, if you've got a horse wearing oxfords don't impede the war effort by taking him to town for a pair of those de luxe pumps with the toes exposed.

Timely Editorial

The President's Life.

Now that President Roosevelt is safely back in this hemisphere, it may be questioned whether he was justified in risking his life on that spectacular flight to Casablanca.

It is probably not to be disputed that the president did nothing in Africa that his official delegate could not have done; it is doubtful if his presence did more than act perhaps as a morale booster, and nobody has the silly thought that the morale of our fighters needs boosting.

The life of any president of the United States belongs to the people in a sense that does not apply to another individual. This has long been an accepted and recognized fact.

While Mr. Roosevelt is our president, he should remain where he is safe from every risk save those alone over which man has no control.—Ohio State Journal.

Interpreting the War News

Desperate Struggle By Germans Foreseen In Advance of Defeat

—By CARL C. CRANMER

GERMANY is wounded, cornered, desperate and dangerous. This is the net impression from the tenth anniversary proclamation of Adolf Hitler and the speeches of his two aides, Reichsmarshal Goering and Propaganda Minister Goebbels.

In effect the whole German nation is being girded to fight to the last man in a suicidal last-ditch stand, just as the Stalingrad siege army that became besieged is made to do.

That is the meaning of Goering's reference to Germans who at Stalingrad "set the final stamp to ultimate victory." The German Sixth army is the example which every German is to be urged to follow.

The theme of win or perish runs throughout the day's proceedings.

"No situation is ever so desperate for Germany that we cannot master it," Goering said.

"In this war there will be neither victor nor vanquished, but only those who survive and those who are destroyed," said Hitler.

"Only fools could imagine a peace by negotiation," Goering said. "Destruction of the German people is at stake."

In the war-crazed mind of the evil genius, Hitler, there probably is some kind of poetry in this picture of a whole nation hurling itself to fanatical self-destruction rather than submit to a civilized order that denies world conquest.

It is a theme upon which he has fashioned his career ever since the Versailles treaty of 1918 when he believed Germany should have gone on fighting from trench to trench, city to city, street to street.

All this dreadful picture of the consequences of defeat was raised by the German leaders to put iron into the German soul, to steel them for greater sacrifices.

Hitler told them they will have to make greater efforts in working and fighting, declared those who fail to do their duty will be destroyed, admitted there can be no "victory without cost" and acknowledged that German towns and cities are threatened with "cruel annihilation" and ruin—a threat made vivid by the crash of bombs in Berlin at the hour Goering was to speak.

THESE admissions sound odd by contrast with the boasts of other years by Goering that a bomb never would touch the hair of a German head in a German city. They are a far cry from the cocksure assertions of Hitler who has bragged of almost costless victories, shouted that Germany's arms were Germany's guarantee, given assurances that no matter what weapons America produced Germany would outdo her, and only a year ago claimed that the worst was already over in Russia.

Goering sought to inject some optimism into the general gloom. In the spring, Germany will attack again with new armies steeled by new weapons, he said. Russia is using her last reserves (again), he added. And when the Russians are at last taken care of, the German air force will take sweet revenge on Britain for those RAF bombings, he declared.

These declarations do not carry conviction. But it is precisely because Hitler and his Nazis are putting such tremendous steam behind their effort to further mobilize an already regimented home front that Germany must be regarded as dangerous.

There is nothing which they will not do if it will avert defeat. New weapons and new tricks will be devised. Known weapons, such as gas, may yet be brought into play out of desperation. Wholesale annihilation of populations and destruction of broad belts of inhabited country to hinder and delay pursuit may be attempted.

Perhaps most dangerous to the United Nations is the submarine. The appointment of Admiral Karl Doenitz as navy commander probably foreshadows an even more ruthless and efficient submarine campaign.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—It may be just talk, but Washington hears—

That there will be little change in OPA policy or personnel now that Prentiss M. Brown has taken over the reins from Leon Henderson. Brown has indicated one of his primary objectives will be to make clear to the public why price controls and rationing must be enforced. Brown is almost as popular with Congress as Henderson was unpopular, and observers say that the absence of Congressional criticism will go far toward giving the new administrator the kind of public favor he will need to put over the price control and ration program.

That the ban on "pleasure driving" is to be made nationwide. Reports on effectiveness of the program in the 17 eastern states and District of Columbia are not in yet but indications are that it has done more to save rubber and gasoline than anything else that has been devised.

THAT War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt's declaration that women would not be called up to register now and would not be drafted was a stop-gap decision, designed primarily to give the women a chance to get into industry and the armed forces of their own volition. The opinion here had been that the threat of registration and possibly selective service had slowed down voluntary action. The draft of women into the military forces and war industries will be the final step in all-out mobilization.

That the United States' drive for scrap is being extended to South America, North Africa and even the Pacific. The insatiable war industries of the U. S. must be fed with raw materials, even if they have to be shipped over hazardous sea-lanes at costs that would, in peacetime, exceed their value.

That instruments, small parts and accessories are now the chief shortages threatening maintenance of production schedules in the war industries, and that future priority orders will be aimed particularly at these as well as at relief of the synthetic rubber and high-octane gasoline industries.

THAT small business is going to get some real relief soon. Not since war began has "small business" had so many representatives in Washington, and some are making themselves heard. As one of these expressed it: "It has only been in the last few months that we really knew how badly we were hit." It took that long for stocks and markets to dry up.

That no matter what action is taken on pay-as-you-go tax plans taxpayers will have to file their 1942 returns March 15 and pay their first quarter tax. Pending legislation ignores the March 15 payment altogether, but consensus now is that nothing will be done to forestall the March 15 payment. Even if legislation is passed before that date, provision might be incorporated in the bill to force the first quarter payment.

Hi-Ya, Kid--Carry On!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THIS is a letter to a kid. I don't know where the kid is nor what he's doing. Nor even how he looks. Fact is, we have never met. Yet I know what he feels and I'm walking beside him tonight. Walking close. On a million-mile sentry duty that stretches around the world.

How do I know what he feels? And how can I be shuffling these many miles? Well, you see—I had a kid once too. A kid who lived to be twenty-one, battling pain and fear. Then slipped away, in spite of all my tears. But tonight he's back with me, as I think of all those other youngsters who are standing guard through the dark and the danger for the U. S. A. And the love and the laughter that are always stored in my heart for him are going out to them.

So it's hi-ya, kid!

Feel that arm over your shoulder?

Well, that's mine.

Feel that glow around you?

That's mine, too. That's the need which I and millions more are feeling in your young strength.

WE'RE LEANING ON YOU, KID.

We're leaning on you as you will never guess until you're as old and tired and discouraged as we are today.

That doesn't mean that we are lying down on the home front. We aren't. But the years have taken a lot of fighting stuff out of us. Even in the peaceful years our hearts knew many a battle you never experienced. We're tired now. We're leaning on you.

WE'RE LEANING ON YOU, KID, TO SAVE THE WORLD WE TRIED TO BUILD.

WE'RE LEANING ON YOU TO PROTECT ALL THE DEAR AND BEAUTIFUL AND SACRED THINGS WE TRIED TO PRESERVE. I KNOW—IT ISN'T EASY TO TRY TO BELIEVE IN ANYTHING OR FIGHT FOR ANYTHING WHEN YOU'RE WALKING SENTRY DUTY AT THIS TIME OF NIGHT.

But try, kid, try!

Try to believe in the nation we fought to make for you.

Try to believe in the decency we wished for you.

Try to believe in the victory we willed for you.

Sure—we made mistakes. We let you down at times. We let ourselves down too. We know those depths of depression which only Youth—and Age—can know. We, too, are walking the sands, whether they be in Libya or Guadalcanal. Sands of bitterness and regret.

But believe in us, kid!

Believe in our love for you.

Believe in our need of you.

Believe in our faith in you.

You are our hope.

You are our salvation.

The night may seem dark as you pace your post. Your job may seem futile. You may be set with the thousand fears which come to youth.

But try to remember us.

Try to remember us who lean on you.

Try to remember how desperately we depend on your young courage these days . . . how hardly we lean on your strength.

We fought for you once, when you were little. Fight for us now when the shadows fall. Fight for this greater world we tried to bequeath to you. Defend our mutual dreams. Remember our love.

HI-YA, KID—CARRY ON!

A Farmer's Diary

New Church

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IT WAS a cold raw Sunday morning. Rain and sleet were in the air. Rolling fields and lowlands were a dull, misty gray. Cattle, eating fodder by Jen Henning's barn stood with backs bowed up. The flock of sheep, farther south, stood quiet and demure, with no motion.

As I approached the graveled lane, Jen Henning drove out. His wife and five children were with him in the car. I knew he was of the Dunkard faith, and that the large white old meeting house was 15 miles farther on, among the hills.

I drove along after him until we approached a weatherbeaten Methodist church beside the road, with a tall steeple and a belfry. The bell began to ring. It had a sweet clear tone that rang out far across the dull gray landscape. I love sweet sounds. I stopped my car and stood alongside it, listening reverently.

Then I saw Jen drive into the parking space, and with his wife and family walk slowly in. Wasn't I mistaken? Truly, Jen and his better half were Dunkards—baptized thirty years ago, in the stream below the cemetery. Surely even gasoline rationing wouldn't work a change like that! Was it just for the duration?

Just then a man of middle age came along, leading a cow upon the sticky bank. I greeted him and wondered if he knew Old Jen Henning. He held tight to the end of the muddy tether, and said with a wary smile—"Didn't you know about the change? In this whole neighborhood it was voted that them that are nearest to the Dunkard church will go there, and them that are nearest to the Methodist, go there. There was words and hot argufying, at first, but when the plan was voted on, in light of tire rationin' and gasoline shortage, they done it. I couldn't believe my own eyes and ears, but so far a lot of men as strict as old Jen is, 'pears to be satisfied.

"Now they're talkin' o' tearin' them two churches down and buildin' a place of worship right in the center of the township. That'd include the Bethel church at Muddy Corners, the Universalists at Hickory Knob and the Baptists near Bloody Run. One good devoted preacher'd do the job, and a trained man'd help him direct the young folks . . . they say it's workin' a'ready, somewheres else.

"'Pears like," here the old cow perked him heavily—"if business and government succeeds when men co-operate, and families get along better that-a-way, why ain't it reasonable that churches could? What are creeds compared to the way of living that Christ taught everyone? I tell you, I'm for it. Next Sunday mornin', barrin' accidents, I'll be right there myself."

The concluding group of organ selections included McAmis' "Dreams," "Irish Air from County Derry," by Lemare, and "Finlandia" by Sibelius.

The organ offertory was "Ave Maria," by Schubert.

Mature Face Is Charming Under Becoming Hat

There is a certain gracious charm which begins at forty, if the mature woman chooses her hats wisely.

Headwear is of special significance in her wardrobe because it provides flattery nearest and dearest to her face. If her chinline has a tendency to sag, she should choose millinery which has a lift in its silhouette High crowns, rolled or upturned brims and trimmings on the up-and-up are particularly recommended. The long, lean face needs a forward-tilted hat with medium width, to subtract inches from its apparent length. Draperies and veiling are magic softeners of angles. Irregular brims and diagonal lines are good for the round face because they cut down width, draw the eyes away from imperfect contours and add essential height.

MARILYN WRIGHT FETED AT RIZER HOME SUNDAY

Bride-Elect of Lieut. Harold Valentine Discloses Date of Her Wedding During Party for Twenty-four Guests.

THE date of Miss Marilyn Wright's marriage to Lieut. Harold Valentine was revealed to a group of her friends Sunday afternoon when Miss Margaret Rizer was hostess for a tea in her home, 243 Ruth avenue. The affair was from three to five p. m.

On their arrival the 24 guests were presented with individual scrambled puzzles, which, when assembled, represented a large valentine. Mrs. Jack Shaaber read from her completed puzzle the wedding date, Feb. 12. The ceremony will be formal, and will be performed at 7 p. m. in the Methodist church in Monroe, North Carolina.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn E. Wright, 750 Maple street, while Lieut. Valentine is the son of Durbin A. Valentine of Columbus.

Tea was served from a long table, attractively appointed in red and white, in keeping with the Valentine season. It was covered with a white linen cloth, centered with a low flat arrangement of red sweet peas and white ragged chrysanthemums. Tall red and white lighted tapers in double candelabra were placed at either end of the table. Also included in the decorations were a miniature soldier and bride on a white satin pedestal.

Mrs. Wright, mother of the bride-elect, poured. Among the guests was Mrs Nettie A. Garner, grandmother of Miss Wright.

Late in the afternoon the honoree was presented with a puzzle similar to the ones given the guests, which told her where to find a large Valentine box which contained a shower of linen gifts from the guests. The hostess presented her with a wedding gift.

Miss Wright will leave next week-end to join Lieut. Valentine who is serving as an instructor of photography with the United States Signal Corps at Camp Sutton, N. C.

Another party for the bride-elect is planned for Tuesday evening by members of her sorority, Beta Pi Mu, to be held at the home of Mrs. Albert Falter, 610 Marion avenue She will be assisted by Miss Ettie Mullett and Miss Clara Jasinski.

Pull Personality "Out Of A Hat"

"Hats are the trademarks of personality," says blonde Celeste Holme, who plays a seductive charmer in Broadway's current comedy success, "The Damask Cheek." Miss Holme wanted the most wicked hat she could find to express her ultra-alluring character in the play.

During the course of the play, which is set in 1909, mention is made of "The Easiest Way," a shocker actually produced in 1909. At a rehearsal Celeste suddenly exclaimed, "Say! My mother designed the hats for Frances Starr in that very play." She rushed to the phone, called Mom long distance and got the lowdown on authentic, naughty-but-nice millinery of thirty-three years ago.

The result . . . a gorgeously wicked hat as the focal point of Miss Holme's costume It is a sailor of bright green wool with a sweeping brim faced in a darker green velvet, topped by a spray of ostrich plumes in graduated shades of green — a stunning complement to her vivid blonde complexion.

Celeste is just one of many Broadway dazzlers who pull personality "out of a hat."

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, Feb. 2.

According to the lunar transits this may be a day of energetic and well-organized activities, with things moving at a rather high tempo, yet it may be difficult to keep free from disagreeable and confused predicaments. The intimate and social life also feel such reaction and it may be well to be cautious in all peculiar situations. The support of elders, superiors or employers may be counted on.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may feel the energies keyed to high enterprise and initiative in putting over ambitious plans, but there may be snares and pitfalls. Unless unusual vigilance and cleverness are exercised and good friends found among those in influential positions there may be some sordid experience.

A child born on this day may be skillful, constructive and aggressive with promise of success, but may be subject to slander or plots.

Mrs. Paul Gurik Feted At Shower

Guest of honor recently at a miscellaneous shower was Mrs. Paul Gurik, the former Geraldine Burns. The shower was given at 336 Bowman street by Mrs. Robert Bunting and Mrs. DeWitt B. Powers.

Darts were played and prizes were won by Mrs. Richard Burns, Mrs. Barbara Bricker, and Mrs. C. O. Burns. Luncheon was served at small tables with pink and white appointments, and centerpieces of rose buds.

The recent bride was pleasantly surprised when her soldier husband, Pvt. Gurik, who is stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., returned unexpectedly home on furlough.

Doctor's Wife Goes To War

Meet the doctor's wife.

She's playing an increasingly important part in World War II. With more and more of the nation's doctors being called into service with the armed forces, whole communities find themselves turning to the doctor's wife for counsel, comfort and help.

In Arkansas, where draft rejections because of malnutrition have been abnormally high, doctors' wives are mapping a victory program for the duration—and after. Mrs. L G. Fincher, president of the American Medical association auxiliary in that state, plans to make the work of her organization raising the nutritional standards of her state. She says:

"A doctor's wife always has a busy life, but now she must get busier. There are many ways in which she can serve her community, and helping people to understand the basic principles of nutrition is one of the most important.

"With the growing shortage of civilian doctors in America, it is probable that medical service for the duration of the war will narrow down to emergencies. People will have to learn how to confer minor ailments—or better yet, to stay well.

"Helping the community to stay well through better nutrition is a job cut out and waiting for the doctor's wife."

"It was a struggle," he said, "but Philip finally climbed down."

With my back to Halloran, I put my finger on my lips, and spoke quickly.

Question of Identity.

"I can hear about it later," I said. "Mr. Halloran says he must see you on a matter of life and death."

My father's eyebrows knitted into a frown, which cleared somewhat as Halloran looked anxiously at him.

"What is it, Halloran?" he asked.

"It's something mighty queer, Mr. Spencer," he said "I just asked your daughter if you were sure you knew the young fellow in the next room, this Mr. Cyril Warner, as you call him."

His tone betrayed that he was sure the real name was not Warner.

"Know him? Of course we know him; have for many years," my father said "Did you, by any chance, think he might be an imposter?"

"That was my thought," Halloran said" "but your daughter assured me I was mistaken. I think you'll excuse me for asking, however, when I tell you that when I finally got the beard off the lad in there," I was thunderstruck."

"Why?" my father asked curtly.

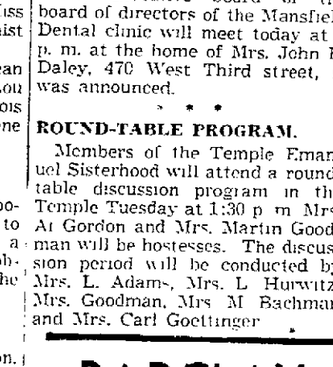
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

GIVE HIM A CHANCE

Declarer's lead of a trump from his own hand, toward either small trumps or none in the dummy, will nearly always tempt the inexperienced cardsman in second-hand position to come up with a card which will beat the one led. If some other card, big enough to beat the one led, is out of sight, the better-trained player will usually play low, in the hope that his partner may have that missing card. Sometimes this may risk loss of your own guarded honor, but on other occasions it involves no such risk. Giving your partner a chance to use the missing honor may not endanger anything.



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣
2 ♦	2 ♠	Dbl	3 ♣
3 ♦	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♣

Please don't try to explain that as good bidding. It is merely what actually occurred in a rubber game and similiar to much that occurs in some of them. And the play was like much of it. West could have set the contract easily by laying down a high diamond and then playing correctly when trumps came along, but he did neither, and an extra trick was gained by South.

Answering his partner's mid-auction double of spades, he led the 9 of that suit, so that the A and K of it enabled South to discard his diamond and be sure he would have no losers there. Then he led the diamond 4 from dummy, ruffed it and was ready for trumps, hoping against hope.

South led the club 10. If West had ducked this, with nothing to lose and with something to gain if East had either the J or K, his side would have had three tricks in trumps. But he put on his Q and returned a diamond, which South ruffed. The club was then led, the A going on and the J dropping. That obviously ended the trick taking for East and West.

When play that bad is shown, it probably requires the explanation that this department is meant to deal with bridge that actually gets played, not alone with theoretical perfection.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Dear Rex: Just finished reading a stack of Mansfield News-Journals and saw some addresses of former Mansfield Braves. The first officer I saw out here was a former Brave, so he said. When I told him where I was from, he said he used to play ball for the Braves. His name is Joyce.

I can't seem to remember him. He is a lieutenant, and also coach of our battalion basketball team. Tell Hoffman we could give them a pretty good game.

We have a former Wisconsin star playing with us. He was Kotz's roommate. Also a former Michigan player. And they are really good.

It seems as though every time I turn around I see some All-American football player, or track or basketball great.

Here are a few of them: Evashevski from Michigan George Svendson Green Bay Packers. Charlie Shultz Minnesota Walter Mehl, long-distance runner. Langhurst and Fisher from State Paskvan, Wisconsin fullback last year, and of course Lt Col. Bernie Bierman Practically every officer out here was a star in some sport

They have a fieldhouse out here that would cover two city blocks.

I also ran into the basketball coach at Springfield last year (Elwood Pitzer) and he started raving about how Winbigler beat his team.

Mansfield is pretty well represented on the Seahawk track team. There are two of us on the varsity, Don Van Geeme and myself. Don is running the hurdles and I am taking a crack at the dashes. Our first meet is Feb. 9 with Iowa and Wisconsin. Then we have a meet with Drake, Iowa State and Cornell, (Iowa) later on.

Tell Mehock he isn't the only one that has a fieldhouse to practice in.

Well that's about all for now, and it's just about time to turn in.

I'm glad to hear the Redhead is making the Seahawks scanty-panty team, and is not losing out on his track by transferring from Ohio U.

And to set him right, after quizzing a few of the Braves fans, Lt. Joyce pitched for the Braves two seasons, and was known around the Ohio State league as the "Hoosier Schoolmaster."

Joyce was an easy-wheeling hurler, who was too old and experienced for the Ohio State kid league, and also was too old to have any illusions about climbing to the majors. He just pitched ball as a vacation from classroom.

Heat Goes On Illini Whiz Kids

Northwestern Game Ends Two-Week Vacation.

By TOMMY DEVINE

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—The "heat" goes on Illinois' great basketball team tonight when it returns to competition after a two weeks lay-off to meet Northwestern at Champaign in the only game on the Big Ten schedule.

When Illinois put aside conference competition for midyear examinations on Jan. 18, it held the league lead and appeared headed for a second straight championship. But things are different now. Coach Doug Mills' proteges trail Indiana by a full game and are faced by statistical evidence that the Hoosiers are a genuine title threat.

Indiana re-affirmed its right to a top-ranking position in the race Saturday night by trouncing Purdue 53 to 35 for its sixth straight league victory. In the only other conference game Wisconsin trimmed Minnesota 54 to 33.

Indiana bounded into the lead a week ago when it walloped Iowa twice on the strength of two great individual performances by Ralph Hamilton, lanky junior forward. Hamilton scored 52 points in the contests against the Hawks.

Purdue's Ed Ehlers and Allen Menke who divided the task of guarding Hamilton Saturday cooled him off considerably. The Hoosier ace bagged only one field goal and two free throws in the first half, but found the basket range a bit better in the final period to garner seven more points.

The ease with which Indiana won despite Hamiltoin's failure to approach his previous point-making average is a tribute to the over-all balance of the Hoosier combination.

Irvin Swanson, the diminutive guard and captain of the Indiana team, and sophomore Ward Williams came through with splendid efforts to make up the slack left by Hamilton. Swanson flipping from far out on the floor, connected for 12 points and Williams contributed 11 more.

Johnny Kotz, Wisconsin forward who set a new all-time conference scoring mark with 212 points in 15 games last season, snapped out of a slump to lead the Badgers to their triumph over Minnesota.

Kotz dropped in eight field goals and two free throws for 18 points as Wisconsin moved into undisputed possession of third place in the standing.

Nancy McCombs rolled high total of 261 for two games in the high school girls' Saturday bowling league at Colony alleys, pacing the Williams team to high total of 856.

Keck had high game of 140.

League Studies Philly Plight

Meeting to Settle Problem Set Feb. 9.

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—The sorry financial plight of the hapless Phils, the National League's "problem club," will be settled at a league meeting in New York on Feb. 9, it was learned today.

The Phils, who owe a reported $100,000 to the league, have made two deals so far this year which netted them only $30,000 in cash. President Gerald P. Nugent must report to the league's board of directors the total extent of his rehabilitation program which, it is rumored, has fallen far short of his goal.

"We're keeping going," Nugent said philosophically. "The league passed the buck to me last December. They told me it was my problem and to work it out myself."

But, evidently, reports say, things have not worked out so satisfactorily. It is hinted that the league will take over the Phils and appoint Bill Terry, former general manager of the New York Giants farm system, to direct the Quakers.

But Nugent wasn't so sure that could be done. "Certainly nobody can come in and take the club without buying it," he said. "People have money invested in the Phils. I don't see how the National league could do that."

ROCKETS COAST TO WIN OVER JACKETS

TOLEDO—(AP)—Employing its second team until shortly before halftime, University of Toledo last night coasted to an easy 42 to 26 victory over Baldwin-Wallace college cagers of Berea, O.

It was the first loss in five conference starts for the Jackets and marked the Rockets' third straight win in league competition. Toledo got away to an 8 to 0 lead in the first two minutes. The visitors never threatened and trailed at the intermission, 23 to 11. Davage Minor led Toledo with nine points while Joe Kostobryz was best for the Jackets with seven.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Baseball, they tell us, is America's national game. Anybody old enough to read is supposed to know all about it . . . But don't tell that story to the boys who have to compile batting and field averages for the Class "D" circuits . . . One of them was moaning about the ignorance of official scorers in the very minor leagues . . . "One guy complained all season about our weekly batting records," he said. "Then at the end of the season he sent in his sheets without any fielding figures . . . They'll list only three total bases and no run batted in for a guy who hit a homer . . . We got one score that had Jones pitching a complete game, then three weeks later the scorer sent us a note 'change Jones to Smith; Jones was traded before the game.' " . . . This year's prize, our informant claimed, came from the North Carolina state league. The box was faultless down to the last two lines, which read: "Weather — Green and Jones; umpires—Fair and warm."

STICK MEANS LOT TO HOCKEY PLAYERS

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—"Boy, give me my No. 5 iron." You've often heard that said on the golf links, and undoubtedly you've said it yourself on more than one occasion.

But did you ever hear a hockey player say to the trainer: "Give me a No. five stick." Maybe not—but just as they have clubs numbered in golf, so do they have them numbered in hockey. That's why you'll see a player, coming back to the bench after breaking his stick, show great care in getting a replacement.

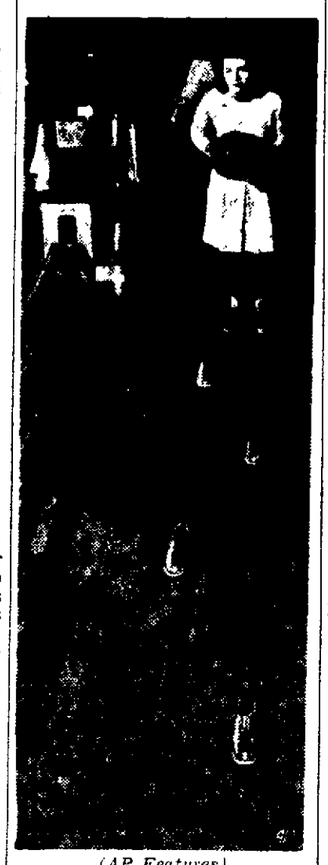
Footwork Counts



(AP Features)

Most bowling experts agree that a 3-step delivery places too much strain on the bowler. As a result they recommend a four-or a five-step delivery, contending that in the later case, the ball does "much of the work." In a four-step delivery, as shown above, the woman steps forward on her right foot, pacing off her steps as illustrated. The steps become longer as the bowler glides to the foul line. Here again her momentum carries the bowler up to the foul line in a slide on her left foot. A bowler should concentrate on footwork until her approach to the foul line is a natural, co-ordinated movement. If her footwork is uncertain, her bowling is uncertain.

Tomorrow: The Backswing.

PROPOSES BILL TO ESTABLISH APPLE BOARD

Rep. Giffin of Morrow County Would Have State Help Fruit Growers.

MT. GILEAD — Representative Frank I. Giffin of Morrow county has introduced in the Ohio house of representatives a bill providing for the creation of an Ohio State apple authority to promote the economic welfare of Ohio apple growers selling Ohio-grown apples in the domestic and other markets and to provide an educational and advertising program to acquaint the public with the value of apples as a food.

The authority would be composed of five practical apple growers to be appointed by the governer, with the director of agriculture and the chief of the bureau of margets serving as ex-officio members. Heading the authority would be a manager and a secretary with such other employes, under civil service, as the authority may see fit to employ.

One of the duties of the authority, as provided in Representative Giffin's bill, is to "endeavor to protect the general public by educating it in reference to the various varieties and grades of Ohio apples, the time to use and consume each variety, and the uses to which each variety may be put."

Representative Giffin's bill provides that the proposed apple authority shall be self-sustaining through the levying of an assessment at the rate of one cent per bushel, when the apples leave the premises of the seller. Apples used or shipped for manufacturing purposes and the first 250 bushels sold by any person in any calendar year, shall be exempt from the tax. The funds raised through the assessment would be used to promote the advertising and sale of Ohio apples and for the purpose of research.

Representative Giffin said today there are many thousands of apple orchards in Ohio located in every county of the state. A large majority of these produce less than 250 bushels a year. There are about 2,000 persons in Ohio who grow apples commercially. The bill has the endorsement of various organizations, including the Ohio State Horticultural society, the Ohio Apple institute and the Ohio Apple Industry committee.

YOU MUST LAY EGGS FOR 10,000,000 SOLDIERS

Patriotic money-wise citizens must rally to Uncle Sam's need for more and still more eggs.

The war budget probably provides $1,500,000,000 for eggs in 1943. Civilians will buy around $11,500,000,000 worth. Something like $2,000,000,000 more will go to our Allies. An estimated total of $15,000,000,000 in eggs.

YOU can share the profits and the glory of this "must" job and have fun doing it.

Raising chickens is simple. They need never leave the coop. Ask any reputable hatchery how a small investment can start YOU on the road to service and profit.

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES ON HIGHER TREND

Restrictions on Steel Use Improves Supply For War Effort.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The stock market continued to tilt slightly higher on average in today's early transactions.

At a moderately active opening fractional improvement was registered for Chrysler, Southern Railway, Phelps Dodge, Radio Corp., Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania and International Nickel.

Trend analysts scanned the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said "restrictions on the use of various products has reduced demand to such an extent that better semi-finished supply is available for other forms of steel of more importance to the war effort."

The review added that scrap continued to flow in volume sufficient to meet all needs.

THEATERS

Sea Action.

Saga of sea warfare, "Stand By For Action," the Ohio attraction co-stars Robert Taylor, Charles Laughton and Brian Donlevy in a story of life aboard a First World war destroyer on convoy duty in the Pacific. Action against Japanese aircraft, the rescue of 20 babies in drifting lifeboats and other thrilling incidents feature the picture. Laughton plays an admiral, Tayor his aide, and Brian Donlevy, the commander.

Chinese Locale.

A modern daughter of China takes her stand against the Jap invaders in "China Girl," the Madison attraction starring Gene Tierney in the title role. Her meeting with an American newspaper cameraman fleeing from a Jap prison and the machinations of a treacherous Japanese consular official provide interest. Victor McLaglen is in the cast, also Alan Baxter and Myron McCormick. "Time To Kill," the second feature, has Lloyd Nolan.

War Drama.

Washington in wartime furnishes the locale for "The War Against Mrs. Hadley," the Ritz headliner. Starring Fay Bainter the picture deals with a wealthy widow who refuses to have a part in the war effort until she sees her son drafted for service and her daughter entering a canteen. Richard Nye and Jean Rogers furnish the romantic interest. Into the east has Spring Byington and Frances Rafferty. Some Honors starring perhaps "Holyd" with John Payne is the prospect.

Musical Film.

"Mountain Rhythm" starring the Weaver Brothers and Elvira tops the bill at the Park. Starring the entertainers who for years were headliners on the vaudeville stage the picture is teamed with "Juke Box Jenny" with Charles Barnet and his orchestra. Harriet Hilliard and Ken Murray are among the players.

THE BOY FROM MAINE

CHAPTER XVII

They all stopped, there on the edge of the crowd, caught in the narrow space that was actually no space at all, between the surging dancers and the table where Ruby Mallory sat. Henderson let go of Rosalie, and she turned completely, confronting Hobey, smiling at him with delight and astonishment — giving him both her hands. "Hobey!" she said, in a little laughing gasp. She was surprised that she could remember his name, but it came back to her easily. "What in the world are you doing here?"

"I work here."

"You don't!"

All the things that he had once been, and all the things that this place was, were summed up in Rosalie's voice and her expression. Hobey, with his eyes twinkling, nodded assent. He was completely poised. He didn't look like a man whose heart had nearly jumped out of his chest. Poise was a thing he had developed, a thing he could put on like a hat, or wrap around him like a scarf. He wore it now.

"But how wonderful!" Rosalie was saying joyfully. "Doing what, for pity's sake?"

"Oh, a little of everything."

"Look," Rosalie said. "That's my table over there. You come straight over there this minute and sit down and talk to me and tell me all about it. I can't wait. I have to hear."

* * *

The easiest way for her to get there was to dance there. She and Henderson started. Her voice was soft laughter in Henderson's ear, and she said, "My dear, this is too — Well, honestly! There's an island where my parents go in the summer, and the natives there are like no people in this world — they're like the mollusks, on hind legs — and that is one of them! That in the Bond Street dinner jacket! The last time I saw him — well, no, but the next-to-the-last time — he was a raggedly little boy who didn't even have shoes. And after that he was a little pipsqueak gob in the navy. And now look at him."

"Nice-looking fellow," Henderson commented ponderously.

"So I have to hear how on earth such a thing came about. It ought to be amusing . . ."

Meanwhile Hobey paused just long enough to speak once more to Ruby. "Did you see her?" he murmured, bending down again.

"Yes, how beautiful," Ruby said. "Who is she?"

"You'll have to think back a few years — but then you'll remember. The love of my life," he said gently.

"Ah. So that's Rosalie," Ruby said. She never forgot anything. "Rosalie Hastings Strange Harker. Any other names by now?" But then she softened and said, "Darlin', you don't mean it."

"It's none other."

Ruby scrutinized him. Look at him, she thought, my goodness, he's never gotten over it. In spite of all the years, and all the changes in him, and all the girls, he had never got over it . . .

"I see," she said. "And was that her husband dancing with her?"

"Not if I remember what he looked like," Hobey said. "Not by a long shot. I'll find out for sure in a minute," he added. "She wants me to come over to the table and tell her the story of my life."

"Do so," said Ruby. "Keep it clean. I'll see you when I see you, then."

Twenty minutes later Ruby was back in her dressing-room, replenishing her make-up at the bulb-framed mirror, when Hobey knocked on the door and said, "Me," and entered. Ruby inspected him in the glass, and she smiled grimly. "'Me' is right," she observed. "You're full of yourself, aren't you! Such a sparkle in the eye I've seldom — "

"Now, now," Hobey said. "No wisecracks. I'm in a very delicate condition, here. Do you want to hear about it, or don't you?"

"Certainly I want to hear about it. I'm all ears."

"I saw you looking at us," Hobey said, "all the time I was at their table."

"You did not," said Ruby. "You weren't seeing anything, except that girl. Just gazing down long, shining vistas of the past — that was what you were doing. You never took your eyes off her, not once. Not that I blame you."

"Yeah," Hobey said. "Isn't she something!"

"She is that. And so's the husband, as far as that goes. The great big gorgeous husband. Is that Bailey Harker, by the way?"

"Who else?"

"Well, don't bite my head off," Ruby said. "I didn't know. It's been years since I've had a bulletin — she could have been married half a dozen times since then."

"Well, she hasn't," said Hobey. "That seems to make you kind of proud," Ruby said, grinning impudently. "Should I congratulate you because Rosalie's only been married twice? Well, all right, if I must. Congratulations."

"Ouch," she added, because Hobey had cuffed her lightly on the side of the head. "Well, go on. What did Rosalie think of you, for example? Or does modesty forbid? And what was the matter with Harker — letting you look at his wife like that? Didn't he notice, or didn't he care, or what's the status quo?"

"He's used to it, I guess," Hobey said. "He seemed to bear up well. In fact he didn't seem to mind me at all — damn him," he added cheerfully.

"Time may remedy that," said Ruby. "I wouldn't worry about it. I mean I gather you're going to see her again, now that you've found her?"

"If I have any luck . . . Look — do me a favor, will you?"

"Name it," Ruby said suspiciously.

"Would you mind if I didn't go on tonight?"

"What?" Ruby barked.

"You heard me."

She also saw him. He looked ashamed, and merry, and despairing, all at the same time. He had never made such a request before — he knew exactly how absurd it was — but just for the moment time had slipped back, and he was a diffident kid from Maine again. He said, "Hal can run the show — and the trio can sing in my spot. How about it? I'd appreciate it."

Ruby was glaring at him, ferociously, albeit with a glint in her eyes that meant she wanted to laugh. "Hobey Higgins Hadley," she said, in full, "you're making me sick to my stomach. What kind of childish prattle is this? Are you an entertainer, or are aren't you? Well, then what difference does it ever make who's in the audience? If the crowned heads of Europe didn't give you stage fright, why should she? Oh, now, stop this nonsense, right away! You have to go on, and you know it."

"Yes, I know it," Hobey said resignedly.

"Then be your age, for mercy's sake. Get out there and show the girl how good you are. She'll be amazed."

"Sorry I brought it all up."

"You should be."

As it turned out his performance was exactly as usual — no better, no worse. It had become automatic by this time, and he needn't have worried for fear it would fail him in Rosalie's presence. He simply stood up there, and ran the show, and talked engagingly, and pleased the people. He had discovered long ago that this was easy.

"I love him," Rosalie said, almost as soon as he had started. "I simply love him."

She looked enchanted, and they all smiled at her, and Bailey said, "'As Maine goes . . .'" and then found that he could finish it, in paraphrase, and did: "so goes my baby."

This was for the Hendersons, and Bailey wagged his head at them; and to Rosalie he said teasingly: "Come, now. He's not that good."

"Compared with what he was, he is."

"He's cute-looking," Mrs. Henderson said involuntarily. It seemed to surprise her as much as anyone else — this unmatronly remark — and she added hurriedly, "In a way. I mean, the way his face lights up when he smiles. And I like to listen to him; he says cute things."

"It's his business," said Whit.

"None of you could possibly get the kick out of this that I do," Rosalie said, "because none of you ever saw him as he used to be."

"You've said that before," said Bailey, "about twenty times."

"Well, but I can't get over it."

She sat bemused, her chin on her hands, her lips and eyes smiling at Hobey, and for him. She even neglected her champagne, in her absorption. He was taller than she remembered him, and he handled himself beautifully, with that co-ordination of muscles that passes in men for grace. He had the same big ears, and dark thick brows, and a new grown-up squareness to his chin. There was nothing matinee-idol about him, and nothing mannered; there wasn't even anything that suggested show business at all. He wore no make-up, and no jewelry — Rosalie thought she remembered that they usually did, but he didn't — and no professional hat, neither a top hat nor a funny one. His hair was slicked with water and not with grease.

The show he ran was a long elaborate entertainment, lasting a full hour. There would be another like it — only nakeder — at 2 a. m. It was primarily a girl show, but with variety acts, and all of it leading up to Ruby's stellar performance at the end. Meanwhile there were chorus numbers, precision dancers, singers, a magician, a pair of comedians, a red-headed sister act, and individual girls who came out of the ranks and did little specialties.

Hobey led all of these out by the hand, and presented them, in a brotherly way. He told the audience what their names were and where they came from and what they were going to do. He showed the little girls off, and turned them around, and eyed them judicially himself, and made comments. They were beautiful little girls, all of them, in the night club manner; and Rosalie, watching him with them, thought idly, "I wonder which is his."

She said aloud, "We forgot to ask him whether he's married."

"A very important point, that," said Bailey, looking amused.

"Stop making fun of me," she said imperturbably. "I'm really interested in him."

"I'd call that a euphemism. 'Fascinated' is the word."

The Hendersons stirred in their chairs a little uneasily. They seemed to wonder whether this was bickering, or whether it wasn't; and Rosalie threw them both a reassuring smile — because it wasn't.

The show went on.

Suddenly she said, "Why, he's going to sing! Himself, I mean!" She even said it rather loudly; so that Bailey was amused again.

"No end to wonders," he suggested.

"None. I didn't dream he could sing."

"What makes you think he can just because he's going to?"

"As a matter of fact, he's fair enough," Whit Henderson said. "I remember from the other night."

"Hush," Rosalie said to Bailey, because Hobey was beginning.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Sooner or later you meet all kinds of celebrities in Hollywood. You even get to know what writers look like.

Naturally, they don't look like writers. Not in the least.

I had a chat today with William Makepeace Thackeray and with Charlotte Bronte. Mr. Thackeray looked, for all his bushy white hair and his dandified attire, like Sydney Greenstreet. Miss Bronte's resemblance to Miss Olivia De Havilland was startling. Mr. Charles Dickens was around somewhere—probably finishing up a chapter to catch the next boat to America—but I couldn't find him. He looked, I was told, like Reginald Sheffield.

Coons

Mr. Dickens and Mr. Thackeray were scarcely speaking. They had a feud on. Mr. Thackery told Miss Bronte, in fact, that he would never think of presenting that fellow Dickens to her. Miss Bronte, an old-English picture in poke bonnet and billowing red velvet gown, protested that she found Mr. Dicken's work most interesting.

I do not know what Miss Bronte really looked like, but I think that had she looked like Miss De Havilland she would certainly have had more suitors. Miss De Havilland, you know, has a fetching wink (as in "Strawberry Blonde") and also, if coaxed, can bark like a dog—two parlor tricks in which Miss Bronte certainly never indulged.

These assorted literary characters are in the movie "Devotion," along with Ida Lupino's Emily Bronte. None of them look any more like writers than did Emile Zola, whom I met several years back on another Warner stage. Mr. Zola, you will recall, looked like Paul Muni. When Mr. Zola grew a beard, he looked even more like Paul Muni.

With Mr. Mark Twain, who was around recently, it was different. Mark Twain looked like Mark Twain, and very little like Fredric March. That, as you may guess, was because Robert Browning, in "The Barrets of Wimpole Street," had already spoken for March's face, and even Hollywood can't have Mark Twain and Browning going around with the same face.

Another writer I met here was Edgar Allen Poe. Even with makeup, and brooding, he looked like John Sheppard. When I saw him Sheppard was brooding, not about Poe or love, but about the kind of picture Poe's life was going to make. He was right. Poe's shade is probably still brooding about it.

TAX REMOVAL TO BE ASSEMBLY'S NEXT HOT ISSUE

Vote on Turning Clocks Back Expected This Week as Big Cities Fail to Object.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Governor Bricker announced today he will deliver his budget message personally to a joint session of the house and senate tonight when they meet at 7:30 p. m.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The administration's plan to remove the sales tax from food consumed in public places may succeed the time-change question as the warmest issue in the Ohio legislature.

The time issue likely will be disposed of this week by the legislature voting to turn back the clocks an hour by removing the state from eastern war time to eastern standard time.

Any doubts apparently were removed when most of the major cities, including Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Youngstown and Canton, indicated they would conform to "slow time." Opposition was expressed in Akron, Steubenville and East Liverpool.

The sales tax bill's hurried flight through the legislature was expected to halt today in the house where Speaker William M. McCulloch said it would not be voted on this week.

The house members, he explained, want to survey the estimated revenues and expenditures of the state for 1943-44 before voting a tax exemption. Removal of the sales tax from food would deprive the state of approximately $3,500,000 a year.

Delay of the measure, which was approved by the senate last Tuesday, would allow more time for developing sentiment in favor of other tax exemptions. Its sponsors in the senate rushed it through that branch before the so-called "interests" seeking exemptions could get up steam.

Representatives of industries desiring to tack on amendments exempting certain products decided to concentrate their arguments on the house. How far they will get is a matter of speculation since Gov. John W. Bricker has advised against tax exemptions other than those now proposed in the sales tax bill.

The time-change bill is scheduled for a vote in the senate Tuesday and the house may add its approval in time for Ohioans to set back their clocks next Sunday.

The legislators this week will begin wrestling with Gov. John W. Bricker's budget, recommending appropriations of more than $300,000,000 for 1943-44 operations of the state government.

BLAME NEGLECT IN DEATH OF 30

Carelessness Held Cause of Seattle Sanitarium Fire Where Patients Died.

(By United Press)

SEATTLE — Authorities intimated today that carelessness caused the fire which yesterday killed 30 patients of a sanitarium, most of them aged men and women.

Maurice Baird, 37, a plumber, was working in the basement on the two oil burning furnaces, transfering their fuel connections from an inside storage tank to an outside one. He was assisted by one of the aged patients.

Sheriff Harlan Callahan said a match was struck to relight one of the furnaces when the new connection was completed, and its flaring head broke off, dropped in a puddle of oil. Baird tried to beat out the flames with his coat. Then someone rushed up and dashed a bucket of water on the flames, spreading it over the basement.

Baird ran upstairs, shouting the alarm. Meanwhile the flames were spreading and soon after the inside storage tank exploded, spreading flames through the old, two story structure eight miles north of Seattle—a long structure recently timbered over with clapboard.

There were 49 patients in the building, most of them in the second story dormitories and most of them in bed. The sanitarium staff, neighbors from houses across the road, and even plumber Baird carried as many as they could out, but 28 perished and of the 21 remaining, 18 were hospitalized, two of these latter dying during the night. Plumber Baird suffered painful burns in carrying Mrs. Mary Perry, 78, who is blind, to safety.

BEDROOM LOCK TANGLE BORES JURYWOMEN IN FLYNN'S TRIAL

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
(UP Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD—A jury, consisting mostly of bored-looking women, hoped to discover today what the click of a lock on a bedroom door has to do with the statutory rape charges against Errol Flynn.

The door, itself, in need of a fresh coat of paint, is in court.

District attorney's officials unscrewed it from its hinges in the blue bedroom of a Bel Air mansion where 17-year-old Betty Hansen charges Flynn undressed her, pushed her on a bed, and attacked her. She testified that just before he ripped the first zipper of her clothing, he slammed the door and she heard the lock click.

Witnesses rounded up by the indefatigable Jerry Giesler, chief of defense counsel, included the caretaker, the housekeeper and the upstairs maid, all of whom claimed the lock was broken and couldn't click.

Flynn testified that he wouldn't know about the lock. He said he never was upstairs at all, with or without Miss Hansen.

The prosecutors, Thomas Cochran and John Hopkins, presented evidence last week to indicate somebody had tampered with the lock. Giesler surprised the nine women and the three men on the jury by saying he'd been to the house a couple of weeks ago and whirled the lock around, himself. He said it was broken then.

The evidence, otherwise, was complete in the triple rape charges filed by Miss Hansen and 16-year-old Peggy Satterlee, both of whom told in vivid detail their stories of attack by the wavy-haired movie hero. Flynn denied their accounts, point by point.

The death yesterday of District Attorney John Dockweiler of pneumonia, proved a complicating factor. Dockweiler filed the state's charges against Flynn and had been directing his prosecution. Court probably will recess for the funeral.

Kilbane and Policewoman Cecelia Heidinger as witnesses. Immediately after the ceremony Glaze was brought to the Ohio State Reformatory here to serve a term for purse snatching while his bride today was hunting a new job.

Probably the most amused spectator for one of the humorous stories told Friday night at the Senior high school commencement exercises by Charles Newcomb, guest lecturer, was Rev. Albert L. Linder. Seated on the stage to offer the invocation and benediction, Rev. Linder was seen quickly writing notes as Newcomb told about a little boy who decided he would be a minister for his life's work. When his father asked what caused such a decision, the lad replied, "well since I have to go to Sunday school anyway I'd rather stand up and holler than sit down and be still."

2 DIE IN PLANE CRASH

OLATHE, Kan.—(INS)—Authorities today investigated the crash of a training plane at the Olathe naval base in which Lieut. F. A. Frizzell, instructor, and Aviation Cadet Byron H. Wilson, 26, of Groton, Mass., were killed.

PLANE DEBRIS FOUND AT FOOT OF HIGH CLIFF

Rear Admiral and Other Naval Officials Met Instant Death, Belief.

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO — Search crews today completed the grim task of removing bodies of 10 navy officers and nine civilian crew members from the torn wreckage of a giant transport plane which crashed 11 days ago against a cliff in northern California on a flight from Honolulu to San Francisco.

Armed guards patrolled the area.

All aboard the plane, including Rear Admiral Robert H. English, commander of U. S. submarine forces in the Pacific, apparently died instantly, the navy announcement said.

Wreckage of the huge four-motored craft was located yesterday in the wild mountain country between Ukiah and Booneville, in Mendocino county, by navy aerial searchers acting on the tip of Charles Wallach, a rancher.

Position of the wreckage, according to navy investigators, showed that the plane smashed into the sheer wall of the 150-foot cliff at top cruising speed, burst into flame and then fell in fragments to the bottom of a deep canyon.

It was believed that at the time of the crash, the pilot was searching for Clear lake, 150 miles north of San Francisco, which was formerly used as an emergency base for the big flying boats when a landing could not be made on San Francisco bay.

According to Captain T. B. Myers of the state highway patrol, only two of the bodies could be identified. The other 17, according to Myers, who was the first person to reach the scene, were burned beyond recognition in the tangled wreckage.

Those identified were Commander John J. Crane, U. S. N., of Vallejo, Cal., and Second Radio Officer George W. Angus, Oakland, Cal., one of the civilian crew members.

Army and navy ambulances were sent to the remote scene to bring the bodies to San Francisco after they had been removed from the wreckage on pack horse and transported to the nearest road in jeeps.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to keep the curious away from the wreckage. A large detail of soldiers, with bayonets mounted, patrolled the area for 20 miles, turning back all unauthorized persons. They had orders to "shoot on sight" anybody who disregarded warnings.

No reason for this stringent measure was given.

The plane took off from Pearl Harbor Jan. 20 and arrived over San Francisco the following morning. It circled the city several times, unable to land because of adverse weather conditions, then was heard to head north presumably in an effort to land on Clear lake. It vanished in the storm and had been the object of a widespread hunt since.

Asks Impeachment Of Henry County's 'Marrying Judge'

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Representatives Kenneth Nash of Cuyahoga county and George B. Marshall of Franklin county revealed today they will introduce legislation in the Ohio assembly asking a drastic revision of Ohio's marriage laws.

The legislators said they will attempt to smash thriving quick marriage mills in a dozen Ohio rural communities.

C. P. McClelland of Columbus, president of the Ohio Probate Judges' association, said the Napoleon, O., marriage mart was a "terrible disgrace" and asked for impeachment of Probate-Common Pleas Judge J. M. Rieger of Henry county.

"This man should be impeached and thrown out of office by the legislature," McClelland said. "That would throw a scare into other judges who are running similar Gretna Greens."

The joint resolution expected to be introduced by Nash and Marshal probably will ask that:

No waiver of the five-day waiting period be granted except to the military on leave or to those whose induction is "imminent."

The bride be a resident of the license issuing county for at least 30 days.

REDS DELIVER DEATH BLOW TO TRAPPED NAZIS

Start to Wipe Out Remnants of German Army Still Before Stalingrad.

last shred of Italy's African empire was gone.

The German high command acknowledged that its sixth army, under Field Marshal Paulus, had been "overwhelmed after more than two months of heroic defense against superior forces." It said other Germans still held on in the northern part of Stalingrad, but held out little hope for them.

On the Tunisian front, the docks at Bizerte and the port of Gabes were battered anew yesterday in daylight attacks from the west, and a communique said 19 Axis planes were destroyed with a loss of five Allied aircraft.

An Italian submarine was sunk in the western Mediterranean by the Canadian corvette Port Arthur.

The capture of Zuara put the British within 35 miles of the Tunisian border, and the Morocco radio reported the Eighth army had crossed the frontier on the coastal road beyond the town.

An earlier British announcement of patrol penetration into Tunisia apparently referred to operations 30 to 40 miles inland.

Allied airmen striking from the east continued to batter Axis airdromes in Sicily and shipping off the Tunisian coast.

The French in North Africa announced execution of 11 Axis parachutist spies, caught wearing civilian clothes behind Allied lines, and execution of two Arabs convicted of aiding them.

The Russians, announcing the scope of the catastrophe to German arms at Stalingrad, said 330,000 of the enemy had been trapped instead of 220,000 as they reported earlier.

Of these, according to the Russian count, barely 43,000 remained, and their fate seemed sealed.

New gains were announced along virtually the whole southern Russian front, where the Germans have been thrust back almost to their line of a year ago everywhere but in the Rostov sector and in the extreme northwestern Caucasus.

The German radio kept up its broadcasts reporting the Stalingrad debacle to the German people, extolling the heroism of the Nazi suicide stand and declaring that it frustrated a critical Russian break-through.

The Allies braced to meet the rising menace of German undersea war, the only phase of the fight in which the Axis still holds the offensive.

In warning of the all-out bid to break Allied ship supply lines, Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, wolf pack U-boat attack originator, was placed in full command of the German navy.

"I will put the entire, concentrated strength of the navy into the submarine war, which will be waged with still greater vigor and determination than hitherto," Doenitz said yesterday in his first declaration as commander in chief. "The entire German navy will henceforth be put into the service of inexorable U-boat warfare. The German navy will fight to a finish."

liam Laughlin, Fourth street and Franklin avenue, told Patrolmen Floyd Bowers and John Grohol he had been attacked by three men on South Diamond street, near Fifth street. One of his assailants struck him in the face. All three were colored, Laughlin told police.

Two knives and a razor were taken from a colored man giving his name as Laundra Heardson, no address, after Bowers and Grohol arrested him for allegedly assailing Noah Fraley, Garden Acres, and Arlie Copley, Phoenix hotel, on North Main street about 3 a m., a police report says. Fraley said Heardson cursed him and Copley and attempted to search them.

Two brothers, 13 and 15 years old, and a third boy seven years old will appear in juvenile court with their parents today to explain a series of thefts at downtown stores. The brothers were apprehended late Saturday by Lieut. Carl Kalstein and Detectives Lee Remy and Oscar Krupp, one of them having loot admitted stolen at the Sears Roebuck and Company store. At their home the boys yielded articles they confessed taking at three North Main street stores.

BACK IN JAIL

Shelby Man Released, Then Arrested on New Charge.

Immediately after Judge C. H. Huston granted his release on a habeas corpus writ in common pleas court this morning, George Risic, 52, Shelby, was re-arrested on a charge of encouraging delinquency of a child in connection with the same offense for which he was first arrested.

Sheriff Frank Robinson, who had brought Risic to the hearing on his writ for release, returned him to the county jail on the new charge. He had been in jail since Jan. 12, having been held in default of $5,000 bond set Jan. 11 by Mayor W. R. Morris at Shelby.

The charge on which he was first booked and bound over from Shelby alleged an attempted assault on a female child under 14 years of age. The second count which is pending, although for the same offense, originated in juvenile court and charges him with encouraging delinquency of the same nine-year-old girl.

Married Men To Get Calls In Big March Draft Quota

said registration of new 18-year-olds had been light and that they believed there were many who had for some reason or another, failed to register upon reaching their 18th birthday.

The law provides that the boys must register on the next day, not a legal holiday or Sunday, following their 18th birthday.

"It is not likely that these new 18-year-old registrants will be called for service for about two months since it takes some time to process them," Todd Patton, clerk of Board one explained. "It has been the policy to wait until the end of the month before we start sending questionnaires to boys registered within the month. Other papers follow in order."

Carrying of classification, as well as registration cards, became mandatory today for all registrants who were less than 45 years old when they were registered.

Registrants were warned again to report all changes in address, place of work or status to their draft board immediately.

National selective service headquarters said that draft boards had been authorized to be "liberal" with delinquents who failed to carry both classification and registration cards, as well as those who failed to report changes, in the event they straightened out their records within two weeks. Penalties might run as high as five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

New Nazi Admiral Advocate of Ruthless Attack to 'Kill, Kill, Kill.'

is still the fanatic believer in the effective use of the submarine as the ace weapon against German enemies.

He strikes a responsive chord in Hitler's heart with his utter ruthlessness in obeying orders and carrying out duties regardless the cost. Doenitz even in past years echoed Hitler's callous remarks that killing of the enemy en masse and everywhere is the surest way of winning a war.

The submarine, used in "wolf packs" to raid enemy shipping lanes in unrestricted form, is the weapon Doenitz kept in the foreground of Hitler's mind as the deadliest creeping paralysis procedure available against German foes. Consequently Doenitz, more than the shelved Grand Marshal Raeder, always has been the apple of Hitler's eye.

The keynote of Doenitz's Prussian attitude toward life was expressed by himself some years ago at a naval banquet on the Tirpitz Ufer in Berlin, headquarters of the German admiralty. In that inner circle he said: "Humanity is a sign of weakness. We shall wage war against humanity, not with it." That remark, at the time, drew a Hitler commendation.

FDR Withdraws Flynn Nomination For Ambassador

closed last night he was asking the president to withdraw his nomination for the post.

While asserting he had been assured by friends in the senate that he would be confirmed, the gray-haired Bronx political leader said he was "unwilling to permit my candidacy to be made the excuse for a partisan political debate."

"To me," he said, "the prosecution of the war is above all other considerations."

Speculation on other possibilities for the post immediately centered on Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan.

Polls of the senate indicated that Flynn's nomination would have been rejected by several votes.

Flynn announced his withdrawal shortly after President Roosevelt returned to the capital from North Africa, although he said he had not conferred with the president before acting. The senate had been scheduled to debate the issue today, and such a debate, Flynn said, would "imply unfortunate disunity."

"I do not question the motives of those who are opposing my confirmation," he said, "but I am mindful of grievances, real or fancied, against the president."

Flynn was described by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at a New York meeting last night as the victim of an anti-administration campaign.

Asserting that Flynn "is a good man," the president's wife said:

"I don't like the fact that we have political bosses in various communities. But a great deal was made of the paving block thing. Mr. Flynn was attacked because he is part of the administration and they don't like the administration."

$25,000 CITY WAGE HIKE TO GO TO COUNCIL

Rookie Policemen and Firemen Slated For Raise From $120 to $140.

W. J. Locke and his advisers have sought deviously to learn the new schedules, the mayor voicing a warning that Miller, although outmanned two to one on the committee, would "raise the Democrats and rim the Republicans on the city payroll."

Some debate arose in committee over the salary of Lloyd L. Kochenderfer, parking meter inspector, Mayor Locke having expressed a desire to have his rating fixed as that of a first class patrolman at $175 a month but the new ordnance grants a boost of $10 to $145.

Chairman Miller indicated he sees no needs of surety bonds for policemen or firemen and many other city posts and described this phase of the salary ordinances of the past "as possibly a plum for anyone having a 'monopoly' on furnishing the bonds" which total about $160,000, renewable annually.

The new pay plan calls for $3,220 instead of $3,060 for the service-safety director and a $5 boost for a clerk-stenographer to $140. A similar raise is recommended for the deputy auditor and the city hall telephonist.

The city engineer will receive $5 monthly raise, assistants will benefit by 50 cents a day more pay, a junior engineer by 75 cents, draftsmen, rodmen and chainmen by 50 cents.

In the street department, truck drivers will step from $140 to $150 with one assigned as a mechanic receiving $15 monthly for tool rental. One class A laborer will step from $135 to $145 as a painter and other class A labor from $125 to $140.

Pay of the waterworks superintendent goes from $2,160 to $2,220, secretary up $5 monthly to $1,290 a year, stenographer clerk $5 more per month; two bookkeepers $10 a month additional; assistant pumping engineers from 80 cents to 85 cents an hour, pumpmen up five cents to 70 cents an hour, service repairmen from $155 a month to $165, three class A laborers from $125 to $140 and one to receive $10 monthly for expenses; meter inspector up from $1,860 to $1,980 annually and electrician from $600 annually to $660.

Pay for some jobs in the water, sewer and garbage departments is compiled from appropriations from various funds established for the different departments and instances of seemingly low pay reflect a single item and not a totaled amount. Such positions as supervisor, electrician, bookkeeper and others are covered by accumulative pay.

The garbage department superintendent is raised from $840 a year to $960, the secretary's partial pay remains at $585, the bookkeeper's at $690, clerk-stenographer at $420 while 14 truck drivers go from $150 to $160 and the two salvage department workers stay at the $150 voted in December.

In the sewer department the superintendent is raised to $2,940 from $2,820. The chief operator at the sanitary plant will get $5 more a month, assistants $10 more and the secretary $585 annually, with the record clerk going from $1,740 to $1,860, electrician to get $1,440, one bookkeeper from $1,680 to $1,740 and a helper to get $840. Two sewer repairmen will get $10 a month increase, to $150, one to receive $10 additional as truck driver.

Pay of the mason is raised from 80 to 90 cents an hour, improvement inspectors from $5.75 to $6.25 per day, an electrical inspector will receive $25 a month, linemen are raised 15 cents an hour to 70 cents, electricians from 70 to 80 cents, city hall janitors will get $5 more a month. Four class A laborers will receive 75 cents an hour, others 70 cents and class B workers 65 cents—a five-cent boost for all classes. The investigator for indigent hospital cases will receive $500 plus $120 expenses annually.

The municipal court clerk will step from $2,160 to $2,220, two deputy clerks from $1,560 to $1,680, the bailiff from $1,980 to $2,040 and one assistant clerk from $1,200 to $1,260.

In the police department the chief's pay goes up $15 to $225, captains from $185 to $200, lieutenants from $170 to $185, detectives from $185 to $200 and traffic commissioner and junior patrol officer goes from $175 to $200 with $10 monthly expense pay.

The identification officer will be upped $15 to $200 and an assistant from $165 to $175. First-class patrolmen will step from $160 to $175, second-lass patrolmen in service one year and less than two move from $135 to $150 while first-year men advance from $120 to $140. Two plain-clothes first class patrolmen will get $25 monthly expense.

In the fire department similar raises are allowed, the chief to get $225, eight captains will step to $200 and 24 firemen will range from $140 to $175 with two going to $200 for their boiler inspector license ratings.

About one year ago council voted increases totaling around $18,000 but within the last three months nearly all departments have asked for raises to meet war-created living cost increases.

ticket," Hardy said.

Mayor W. J. Locke, Councilman George C. Kyle and C. M. Crafton former service-safety director, have been mentioned as possible G. O. P. mayoralty candidates, but none of them has announced his intentions.

Hardy said today he was not in a position to say whether the mayor would seek a third term next fall but the committee hopes to get the answer Wednesday night.

Invited with other city officials, Kyle also will have a chance to make his plans known to the committee. Other councilmen have been asked to attend.

Crafton, who resigned his city job last year after disagreeing with Mayor Locke on administration policies, said today he had not made up his mind about running.

"It's pretty early yet, and I probably won't have any statement to make for another six or eight weeks," he said. He added that he had not been invited to the Wednesday night meeting.

press corps in almost a month until later in the week. It will be the first time that reporters will have had the opportunity of questioning the president since his "unconditional surrender" conference with Churchill. Questions were prohibited at his meeting with war correspondents in Casablanca.

The chief executive probably will go to work right away on plans developed for "unconditional surrender" of the Axis as soon as possible.

Official quarters here believed that the president and Churchill and their military advisors decided when and where to start a victory offensive against the Axis.

Their decision, of course, will be unknown to the public until the big push actually begins. But, as in the case of the North African invasion, a comparatively lengthy period of preparation will be required.

The president took a week to make the trip home from Casablanca. Sources close to the president said he was in tip-top shape at the end of his trip of over 10,000 miles.

Prospects 'Good' For Raid On Tokyo

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—(AP)—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox has returned from an inspection of Pacific outposts with the predictions that "there are darn good prospects of an air attack on Tokyo" and that "within the next 30 days all organized resistance on Guadalcanal will disappear."

The secretary, who stopped here briefly yesterday en route back to Washington on his 20,000-mile inspection trip, twice within the past two weeks was under Japanese air attack. The first was a short one at Espiritu Santo in the New Hebrides and the second, much heavier of seven-hour duration, was on Guadalcanal. No casualties were reported in either attack.

With Secretary Knox during the attacks were Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, and Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of the South Pacific force.

"I think there are darn good prospects of an air attack on Tokyo," the secretary said at Pearl Harbor just before flying here. "But when or how it will hit I will not say."

"Our submarines are doing a magnificent job and operations against the Japanese lines of communications are going at a good rate. I think destruction of shipping is a matter of great concern to the Japanese."

The submarine situation in the Atlantic, however, he viewed as "a tough problem to us" and said "lots of losses are ahead there for us."

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Sooner or later you meet all kinds of celebrities in Hollywood. You even get to know what writers look like.

Naturally, they don't look like writers. Not in the least.

I had a chat today with William Makepeace Thackeray and with Charlotte Bronte. Mr. Thackeray looked, for all his bushy white hair and his dandified attire, like Sydney Greenstreet. Miss Bronte's resemblance to Miss Olivia De Havilland was startling. Mr. Charles Dickens was around somewhere—probably finishing up a chapter to catch the next boat to America—but I couldn't find him. He looked, I was told, like Reginald Sheffield.

Coons

Mr. Dickens and Mr. Thackeray were scarcely speaking. They had a feud on. Mr. Thackery told Miss Bronte, in fact, that he would never think of presenting that fellow Dickens to her. Miss Bronte, an old-English picture in poke bonnet and billowing red velvet gown, protested that she found Mr. Dicken's work most interesting.

I do not know what Miss Bronte really looked like, but I think that had she looked like Miss De Havilland she would certainly have had more suitors. Miss De Havilland, you know, has a fetching wink (as in "Strawberry Blonde") and also, if coaxed, can bark like a dog—two parlor tricks in which Miss Bronte certainly never indulged.

These assorted literary characters are in the movie "Devotion," along with Ida Lupino's Emily Bronte. None of them look any more like writers than did Emile Zola, whom I met several years back on another Warner stage. Mr. Zola, you will recall, looked like Paul Muni. When Mr. Zola grew a beard, he looked even more like Paul Muni.

With Mr. Mark Twain, who was around recently, it was different. Mark Twain looked like Mark Twain, and very little like Fredric March. That, as you may guess, was because Robert Browning, in "The Barrets of Wimpole Street," had already spoken for March's face, and even Hollywood can't have Mark Twain and Browning going around with the same face.

Another writer I met here was Edgar Allen Poe. Even with make-up, and brooding, he looked like John Sheppard. When I saw him Sheppard was brooding, not about Poe or love, but about the kind of picture Poe's life was going to make. He was right. Poe's shade is probably still brooding about it.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Governor Bricker announced today he will deliver his budget message personally to a joint session of the house and senate tonight when they meet at 7:30 p. m.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—The administration's plan to remove the sales tax from food consumed in public places may succeed the time-change question as the warmest issue in the Ohio legislature.

The time issue likely will be disposed of this week by the legislature voting to turn back the clocks an hour by removing the state from eastern war time to eastern standard time.

Any doubts apparently were removed when most of the major cities, including Columbus, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Youngstown and Canton, indicated they would conform to "slow time." Opposition was expressed in Akron, Steubenville and East Liverpool.

The sales tax bill's hurried flight through the legislature was expected to halt today in the house where Speaker William M. McCulloch said it would not be voted on this week.

The house members, he explained, want to survey the estimated revenues and expenditures of the state for 1943-44 before voting a tax exemption. Removal of the sales tax from food would deprive the state of approximately $3,500,000 a year.

Delay of the measure, which was approved by the senate last Tuesday, would allow more time for developing sentiment in favor of other tax exemptions. Its sponsors in the senate rushed it through that branch before the so-called "interests" seeking exemptions could get up steam.

Representatives of industries desiring to tack on amendments exempting certain products decided to concentrate their arguments on the house. How far they will get is a matter of speculation since Gov. John W. Bricker has advised against tax exemptions other than those now proposed in the sales tax bill.

The time-change bill is scheduled for a vote in the senate Tuesday and the house may add its approval in time for Ohioans to set back their clocks next Sunday.

The legislators this week will begin wrestling with Gov. John W. Bricker's budget, recommending appropriations of more than $300,000,000 for 1943-44 operations of the state government.

BLAME NEGLECT IN DEATH OF 30

Carelessness Held Cause of Seattle Sanitarium Fire Where Patients Died.

(By United Press)

SEATTLE — Authorities intimated today that carelessness caused the fire which yesterday killed 30 patients of a sanitarium, most of them aged men and women.

Maurice Baird, 37, a plumber, was working in the basement on the two oil burning furnaces, transfering their fuel connections from an inside storage tank to an outside one. He was assisted by one of the aged patients.

Sheriff Harlan Callahan said a match was struck to relight one of the furnaces when the new connection was completed, and its flaring head broke off, dropped in a puddle of oil. Baird tried to beat out the flames with his coat. Then someone rushed up and dashed a bucket of water on the flames, spreading it over the basement.

Baird ran upstairs, shouting the alarm. Meanwhile the flames were spreading and soon after the inside storage tank exploded, spreading flames through the old, two story structure eight miles north of Seattle—a long structure recently timbered over with clapboard.

There were 49 patients in the building, most of them in the second story dormitories and most of them in bed. The sanitarium staff, neighbors from houses across the road, and even plumber Baird carried as many as they could out, but 28 perished and of the 21 remaining, 18 were hospitalized, two of these latter dying during the night. Plumber Baird suffered painful burns in carrying Mrs. Mary Perry, 78, who is blind, to safety.

BEDROOM LOCK TANGLE BORES JURYWOMEN IN FLYNN'S TRIAL

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
(UP Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD—A jury, consisting mostly of bored-looking women, hoped to discover today what the click of a lock on a bedroom door has to do with the statutory rape charges against Errol Flynn.

The door, itself, in need of a fresh coat of paint, is in court.

District attorney's officials unscrewed it from its hinges in the blue bedroom of a Bel Air mansion where 17-year-old Betty Hansen charges Flynn undressed her, pushed her on a bed, and attacked her. She testified that just before he ripped the first zipper of her clothing, he slammed the door and she heard the lock click.

Witnesses rounded up by the indefatigable Jerry Giesler, chief of defense counsel, included the caretaker, the housekeeper and the upstairs maid, all of whom claimed the lock was broken and couldn't click.

Flynn testified that he wouldn't know about the lock. He said he never was upstairs at all, with or without Miss Hansen.

The prosecutors, Thomas Cochran and John Hopkins, presented evidence last week to indicate somebody had tampered with the lock. Giesler surprised the nine women and the three men on the jury by saying he'd been to the house a couple of weeks ago and whirled the lock around, himself. He said it was broken then.

The evidence, otherwise, was complete in the triple rape charges filed by Miss Hansen and 16-year-old Peggy Satterlee, both of whom told in vivid detail their stories of attack by the wavy-haired movie hero. Flynn denied their accounts, point by point.

The death yesterday of District Attorney John Dockweiler of pneumonia, proved a complicating factor. Dockweiler filed the state's charges against Flynn and had been directing his prosecution. Court probably will recess for the funeral.

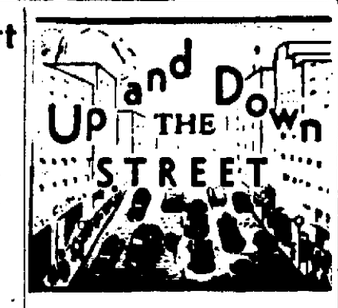
Up and Down the Street



The law compels one Cleveland bridegroom to spend a prolonged honeymoon in Mansfield, entirely devoid of his "honey." Lawrence Glaze, 19, and Virginia Davis, 18, who arrived in Cleveland from Portsmouth two months ago to seek war work, were wed yesterday in a church ceremony, with County Jailer Michael J. Kilbane and Policewoman Cecelia Heidinger as witnesses. Immediately after the ceremony Glaze was brought to the Ohio State Reformatory here to serve a term for purse snatching while his bride today was hunting a new job.

Probably the most amused spectator for one of the humorous stories told Friday night at the Senior high school commencement exercises by Charles Newcomb, guest lecturer, was Rev. Albert L. Linder. Seated on the stage to offer the invocation and benediction, Rev. Linder was seen quickly writing notes as Newcomb told about a little boy who decided he would be a minister for his life's work. When his father asked what caused such a decision, the lad replied, "well since I have to go to Sunday school anyway I'd rather stand up and holler than sit down and be still."

Members of the Sportsmen's Sailing club enjoyed a "dry land" regatta Sunday afternoon in the North Lake park pavilion, 60 members and their families participating. The regatta was arranged by Earl Pollock, Mansfield, and August Grotegut, Ashland.

2 DIE IN PLANE CRASH

OLATHE, Kan.—(NS)—Authorities today investigated the crash of a training plane at the Olathe naval base in which Lieut. F. A. Frizzell, instructor, and Aviation Cadet Byron H. Wilson, 26, of Groton, Mass., were killed.

PLANE DEBRIS FOUND AT FOOT OF HIGH CLIFF

Rear Admiral and Other Naval Officials Met Instant Death, Belief.

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO — Search crews today completed the grim task of removing bodies of 10 navy officers and nine civilian crew members from the torn wreckage of a giant transport plane which crashed 11 days ago against a cliff in northern California on a flight from Honolulu to San Francisco.

Armed guards patrolled the area.

All aboard the plane, including Rear Admiral Robert H. English, commander of U. S. submarine forces in the Pacific, apparently died instantly, the navy announcement said.

Wreckage of the huge four-motored craft was located yesterday in the wild mountain country between Ukiah and Booneville, in Mendocino county, by navy aerial searchers acting on the tip of Charles Wallach, a rancher.

Position of the wreckage, according to navy investigators, showed that the plane smashed into the sheer wall of the 150-foot cliff at top cruising speed, burst into flame and then fell in fragments to the bottom of a deep canyon.

It was believed that at the time of the crash, the pilot was searching for Clear lake, 150 miles north of San Francisco, which was formerly used as an emergency base for the big flying boats when a landing could not be made on San Francisco bay.

According to Captain T. B. Myers of the state highway patrol, only two of the bodies could be identified. The other 17, according to Myers, who was the first person to reach the scene, were burned beyond recognition in the tangled wreckage.

Those identified were Commander John J. Crane, U. S. N., of Vallejo, Cal., and Second Radio Officer George W. Angus, Oakland, Cal., one of the civilian crew members.

Army and navy ambulances were sent to the remote scene to bring the bodies to San Francisco after they had been removed from the wreckage on pack horse and transported to the nearest road in jeeps.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to keep the curious away from the wreckage. A large detail of soldiers, with bayonets mounted, patrolled the area for 20 miles, turning back all unauthorized persons. They had orders to "shoot on sight" anybody who disregarded warnings.

No reason for this stringent measure was given.

The plane took off from Pearl Harbor Jan. 20 and arrived over San Francisco the following morning. It circled the city several times, unable to land because of adverse weather conditions, then was heard to head north presumably in an effort to land on Clear lake. It vanished in the storm and had been the object of a widespread hunt since.

Asks Impeachment Of Henry County's 'Marrying Judge'

COLUMBUS —(UP)— Representatives Kenneth Nash of Cuyahoga county and George B. Marshall of Franklin county revealed today they will introduce legislation in the Ohio assembly asking a drastic revision of Ohio's marriage laws.

The legislators said they will attempt to smash thriving quick marriage mills in a dozen Ohio rural communities.

C. P. McClelland of Columbus, president of the Ohio Probate Judges' association, said the Napoleon, O., marriage mart was a "terrible disgrace" and asked for impeachment of Probate-Common Pleas Judge J. M. Rieger of Henry county.

"This man should be impeached and thrown out of office by the legislature," McClelland said. "That would throw a scare into other judges who are running similar Gretna Greens."

The joint resolution expected to be introduced by Nash and Marshal probably will ask that:

No waiver of the five-day waiting period be granted except to the military on leave or to those whose induction is "imminent."

The bride be a resident of the license issuing county for at least 30 days.
